Red Troops Advance; British Lose in Africa

Total Gain Is 23 Miles For Russia

Von Rommel's Army Captures Agedabia Against Light Anglo Force

Help Is Seen

Heavy Aerial Aid Has Been Sent to Axis, London Says

(By The Associated Press)
Russia's victorious Red armies, repeating the triumphs their forebears scored against Napoleon in 1812, drove the Germans 23 miles west of Mzhaisk in a seven-mile-a-day advance today, while on the North African front, British desert troops underwent a startling reverse.

British middle east headquarters acknowledged that Axis mechanized forces, striking 90 miles northeastward from El Agheila, had recaptured Agedabia, and it was apparent that Gen. Erwin Rommel had begun a full-fledged counteroffensive.

Agedabia, the scene of a brief Axis stand after Gen. Rommel's armies had been thrown back 300 miles from the Egyptian-Libyan frontier, is 80 miles south of Benghazi on the Gulf of Sirte.

A Cairo bulletin said Axis troops, screened by a swirling red sandstorm, lunged forward from the Mersa Brega sector, 25 miles Northeast of El Agheila, on the second day of what was described as a "reconnaissance in force" yesterday.

"By evening, our light forces had withdrawn east of Agedabia, which the enemy occupied," British headquarters said.

Astonished by the setback, at the peak of the British drive toward Tripolitania, London military quarters suggested heavy aerial reinforcements must have reached the Germans and Italians.

These quarters said the mention of "light forces" withdrawing from Agedabia indicated the main British force had not yet attempted to stop Gen. Rommel's counter-drive.

On the Soviet front, the retreat of Hitler's battered armies along the Napoleonic road from Mzhaisk to Smolensk was further endangered by Russian pioneers squelching down on the "escape corridor" at Vyazma.

Front-line dispatches said Russian troops striking across deep snowdrifts at the German rear guard were only 40 miles from Vyazma and that other Red Army forces were knifing down from the northeast to cut off the main Nazi column.

A Red Army bulletin announced the capture of Borodino, 12 miles west of Mzhaisk, and of Uvarov, five miles farther west.

At Borodino, the Nazis burned the famous Napoleonic Museum, destroying relics of Napoleon's battle with Czar Alexander III's Imperial armies in the winter snows of 1812.

In addition to these developments at the center, a Soviet information bureau communiqué reported the Germans lost 250 men with the recapture of three settlements in an unidentified sector.

The Soviet War News, a Russian publication issued in London, said Germany was straining production facilities in an attempt to retool her factories to turn out improved fighters and bombers to challenge Superior United States, British and Russian aircraft in the spring.

A strengthening stand by Turkey against Axis propaganda was indicated by a Reuters dispatch from Ankara. It said the Turkish government had barred the sale of the German News Magazine Signal, distributed by the millions over Europe.

Aid for East Is Heartening to U. S. As Japs Push On

Tokyo, However, Has Not Made Sufficient Use of Time Since December 7

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (Wide World War Analyst)

The disclosure by a high Washington official that American reinforcements and war equipment are moving into the western Pacific affords encouragement, although in these hard days results in battle are much more comforting than advance notices.

Time is a most important element, and the hope must be that sufficient aid will arrive in the immediate future from America or Britain to ease the Japanese pressure, especially on the Malay peninsula where the position is increasingly serious for the allies. The preservation of Singapore is essential, and so is the safeguarding of Burma, which is the life-giving source of the great Burma road upon which China depends for her war supplies from the outside world.

As things now stand it would seem that help for the present will have to come chiefly from the United States, since it is unlikely that Britain will be able to spare much from the European theatre.

Court of Appeals Upholds Physician's Right to Try New Medical Methods

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 23 (AP)—A physician's right to investigate and employ new medical methods was upheld by the New York Court of Appeals yesterday when it rejected the appeal of the State Board of Regents for approval of the suspension of a Long Island physician.

Accused by the board of "offering, undertaking and agreeing" to treat a cancerous tumor "by a secret method," Dr. Emanuel L. Stammer, Jamaica, L. I., was suspended July 10, 1940, for one year after a trial before the board's grievance sub-committee.

Writing the majority opinion in the 5 to 2 decision, Associate Judge Harlan W. Ripley said Dr. Stammer did not keep his treatment secret and had used it for several years prior to the case resulting in his suspension.

Brazos Survivors Tell of Work in Dumping of Cargo

Crew Toiled Five Hours to Jettison Sugar While Ship Was Sinking After Collision

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—The 35-man crew of the American freighter Brazos, sunk January 13 after a collision with an unidentified vessel in submarine-infested Atlantic coastal waters, spent five hours trying to jettison the cargo before taking to the lifeboats.

Survivors reaching here yesterday coincident with a navy announcement that the 4,497-ton ship had been sunk and the entire crew saved said they abandoned ship only after casting tons of sugar into the sea while their boat was foundering.

The Brazos, 43-year-old veteran of the New York-Charleston-Galveston trade, was under lease to the New York-Puerto Rico Steamship Company by the Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies Lines, and was the ninth American or allied vessel to be sunk or damaged by torpedo or accident off the Atlantic in the last 10 days.

The crew, headed by Captain Charles L. Stone of Staten Island, N. Y., was rescued by another vessel which the navy did not identify and landed at Charleston, S. C. Francisco R. Pabon, one of the two men injured, remained in a hospital here.

Army Asks 12 Billions For Planes

Fund Would Provide 33,000 Craft as Basis for Knockout Drive Against Axis

Testimony Given

Arnold, Other Officers Tell How Money Is Needed

Washington, Jan. 23 (AP)—An urgent request by army officials for a $12,525,872,474 appropriation to construct 33,000 planes in preparation for "our offensive knockout blow" was sent to the House today—and speedy approval was taken for granted.

Lieut. Gen. H. H. Arnold, Deputy Chief of Staff for Air, said the program was necessary to build up an air force both for the United States and its Allies, and told the House Appropriations Committee:

"We are not only accelerating the attainment of our original state of preparedness, but we also are conducting combat operations and must concurrently build toward our offensive knockout blow."

"Now, by decisive action we must counteract the time advantage of the enemy. It is considered essential that funds for this program be made available at the earliest possible date in order that the present facilities may be prepared for further production and that the new facilities may be expedited."

Testimony by Arnold and other officials, made public today, showed that $7,144,056,340 of the fund—the largest single military appropriation in the history of Congress—would go for complete airplanes. Another $1,547,948,529 has been allocated for armament, aircraft cannon, small arms ammunition, bombs and pyrotechnics.

Spare engines and parts will require almost $1,900,000,000, and new facilities to expedite production of the planes will take another $933,000,000. About $1,000,000,000 will be spent on supplies of the Signal Corps and Chemical Warfare Service.

Continuation of Rate
Arnold said that the required program, except for heavy bombers, was a continuation of the present rate of production and was made before President Roosevelt asked Congress for 60,000 planes in 1942 and 125,000 in 1943.

Disclosing that the pending appropriation would cover procurement of 23,000 combat planes and 10,000 training craft, Arnold testified that he could not agree with a report of the Senate Defense Investigating Committee which asserted that relatively few of the nation's planes were on a par with Axis craft and that there had been too many production delays.

Replying directly to statements by committee members, Arnold said it was true that he had said that the P-40 type of plane was no longer regarded as better than a good pursuit trainer. But since the original P-40, he said the P-40 A, B, C, D, E, and F had been developed and had been found very effective.

"The Truman (Senate Investigating) Committee talked about 'piddling changes in carburetors,' but that same piddling change in our carburetors was to correct something that probably caused a forced landing, with the death of eight or nine people," Arnold said.

Production of planes on existing orders will reach a peak next August, Arnold said, but there were indications in other testimony—all of which was carefully edited by war department and congressional officials—that production of the $12,000,000,000 program would not be completed until late in 1943.

Arnold asserted that the air force and the air industry was seeking round-the-clock production schedules. At the same time, he added, the War Department has adopted a program of training pilots and mechanics, and constructing bases, "all figured out so that

Tojo Says Japan Would Welcome China Peace Talk

Premier Says China Is Sister Nation; Koo Doubts Any Peace Is Possible

(The following dispatch indicates that a Japanese peace offensive has been launched to detach China from the lineup of the United Nations.)

Tokyo, Jan. 23 (Official Broadcast recorded by AP)—Addressing Parliament this afternoon, Premier General Hideki Tojo reiterated Japanese willingness to accept any Chungking overtures for peaceful reconciliation if that regime changes its attitude.

He declared that although Japan has been fighting Chungking for five years she still regards China as a sister nation and has not changed her mind about receiving Chungking with open arms if she only rectifies her mistaken ideas.

"Japan is chastising a spoiled child who was pampered by Anglo-America," the premier stated. He asserted that past faults in China would vanish with the disappearance of Anglo-American influence.

"Now is the time for China's leaders to awaken and I take this occasion to urge them to do so."

Production Board Torpedoes Girdles And Other Goods
Golf and Tennis Balls, Garden Hose, Bathing Accessories Cannot Be Manufactured

Washington, Jan. 23 (AP)—Sorry, girls, but the war production board confirmed that bad news about girdles today.

After February 1, an order declared, no more crude rubber or latex may be used in manufacturing girdles or other foundation garments, golf and tennis balls, erasers, bathing suits and caps, lawn and garden hose and hundreds of other common household items.

Extending already strict government control over the rubber industry, the board made public a long list of "essential" products which may be manufactured; established production quotas for each class of products, and directed that use of crude rubber for a wide variety of "essential" civilian goods be reduced about 75 per cent below recent annual consumption.

After February 1, the order stipulated, all products not on the list may be manufactured only from reclaimed rubber.

It was this provision which torpedoes girdles. Reclaimed rubber, experts say, cannot be used satisfactorily in material which is subject to recurrent stretching. After a few stretches, it doesn't bounce back into shape.

Subject to Limitations
Since last December 19, when the government halted production of all non-essential goods pending a detailed study of the rubber shortage, the industry's output has been subject to general limitations. The new W.P.B. order tells the industry exactly what it can and cannot make and how much of it.

Specific permission must be obtained from the board before crude rubber or latex can be used to make tires or tubes, retreading material, insulating compounds, jar rings and other items. Further, W.P.B. may at any time change specifications of all products on the approved list to reduce the amount of crude rubber used.

Consumption of rubber on the approved list is based on average monthly consumption during the year ended last March 31. Each month, for example, the industry may produce exactly the same amount of hospital and surgical supplies and infant feeding products as was produced during the comparable month in the base period. The same 100 per cent limit applies to such goods as industrial protective clothing, tire repair materials and surgical and medical equipment. Equipment for printing and publishing is cut to 80 per cent; water bottles and ice bags to 75 per cent.

The order provides that, until further notice, no one may sell, trade or transfer any crude rubber or latex without permission from the W.P.B. or the Rubber Reserve Company, an R.F.C. subsidiary.

Plane, Tank Output Now Well Begun

Navy Has 346 Combat Vessels on Ways and 999 Merchant Contracts Have Been Let

Start Is Praised

Mac Leish Says Period of Transition for U. S. Is Over

Washington, Jan. 23 (AP)—With "good strong foundations" already established, America is on its way today to "outbuilding the world" in planes and tanks—the "two most important weapons" in modern war—and is stepping up rapidly all line of war output.

Moreover, said a red, white and blue bordered "report to the nation" issued by the newly formed office of facts and figures, the navy has 346 new combat vessels under construction—double its present strength; contracts have been let for 999 merchant ships; the army is expanding toward a possible 7,000,000 men, and economic warfare is proceeding on world-wide fronts.

The report, first official summary of the defense-war effort since the government clamped down on publication of production figures several months ago, was prepared at the request of President Roosevelt. It covered the period from the fall of France in 1940 to Pearl Harbor and on to the end of 1941.

Archibald MacLeish, director of O. F. F. (he also is librarian of Congress) described American industry as having passed the period of transition and said that while in a sense the "real work is only now beginning," a tremendous start has been made and the job ahead "will be done."

Some of the highlights of the 20,000 word report:

Production of all weapons and supplies will be increased nearly 300 per cent in 1942 over the last 18 months.

Army warplane production has been "stepped up to the point where, with Great Britain, we soon will exceed the plane output of the Axis countries. More important, we will have the plant capacity to increase our production to the point where we can seize control of the air in all areas of the world struggle."

Four Types of Planes
The United States now has four types of army combat planes "better than anything yet produced abroad, so far as is known." * * * American bomber types now in mass production are superior to those built anywhere else in the world. Still better models are on the way.

Plane and tank production this year will equal that of Hitler "in all the years before 1939 when he was preparing to conquer the world."

Mac Arthur Staves Off New Attack

Only Bright Spot Found in News From Orient Is That U. S. Has Sent Reinforcements

Route Is in Peril

Burma Road Is in New Danger, According to Advice

By ROGER D. GREENE (Associated Press War Editor)

Japan's march of conquest struck directly toward Australia today as sea-borne Japanese troops landed in New Guinea, the Solomon Islands and probably New Britain in a sweep jeopardizing not only the land "down under" but also United States routes to the Pacific war zone.

At its nearest point, New Guinea is only 100 miles across the Torres Strait from Cape York, northernmost tip of Australia.

Blazing forth like a star-shell against the somber background of the Pacific struggle, a war department bulletin reported that Gen. Douglas MacArthur's heroic defenders in the Philippines again had beaten off all Japanese attacks with bloody losses.

The communique said Japanese assault troops, strongly reinforced, had launched "extremely heavy" attacks in the past 24 hours only to be met by a withering fire from Gen. MacArthur's American-Philippine forces on Batan peninsula, across the bay from Manila.

Gen. MacArthur reported the invaders were making almost continuous attacks without regard to losses.

Bright Spot in News

In general, the news was dark from all fronts in the far Pacific conflict, relieved only by word from Washington that the United States was beginning to pour a stream of reinforcements into what has been, until now, a lopsided struggle.

Critical hours again were at hand in the battles of Malaya and Burma.

Dutch heavy bombers and fighters lashed out at the Mikado's invasion hordes swarming into the South Sea Islands, scoring 12 direct hits on eight Japanese warships and transports in the Strait of Macassar, between Dutch Borneo and Celebes Island.

Military strategists emphasized the triple menace of Japan's newest thrusts.

The war has been brought to territory within easy striking-distance of Australia.

Japan has forced a new link in her chain of bases stretching south and east for 2,500 miles from Tokyo to the Solomon Islands.

The United Nations' supply lines to the Dutch East Indies, Singapore, Burma and China have been sharply endangered.

From bases in New Guinea and in the 750-mile-long Solomon chain to the east, Japan may now command the vital Torres Strait between Australia and New Guinea and force allied shipping into a 3,000-mile detour south of the Australian mainland.

In swift alarm, Australia ordered blackouts in all cities, militia units were equipped with full battle dress, and the commonwealth war cabinet was called in emergency session. Urgent new appeals were sent to Washington and London stressing the need for reinforcements.

The locale of the Japanese landing in New Guinea was not given, but presumably the invaders put ashore near off-bombed Madang, on the northeast coast, 450 miles airline from Cape York, Australia, and 1,200 miles from Australia's great Port Darwin naval base.

Deputy Prime Minister Francis Forde, warning that we must realize the gravity of the situation, said it was assumed that the Japanese had also landed at Rabaul, New Britain Island, where the British garrison had withdrawn after firing and dynamiting dock installations at the approach of a Japanese flotilla of 11 ships late yesterday.

A fleet of commercial airliners carrying double loads, evacuated 800 women and children from Rabaul in the last few hours before the Japanese landed there.

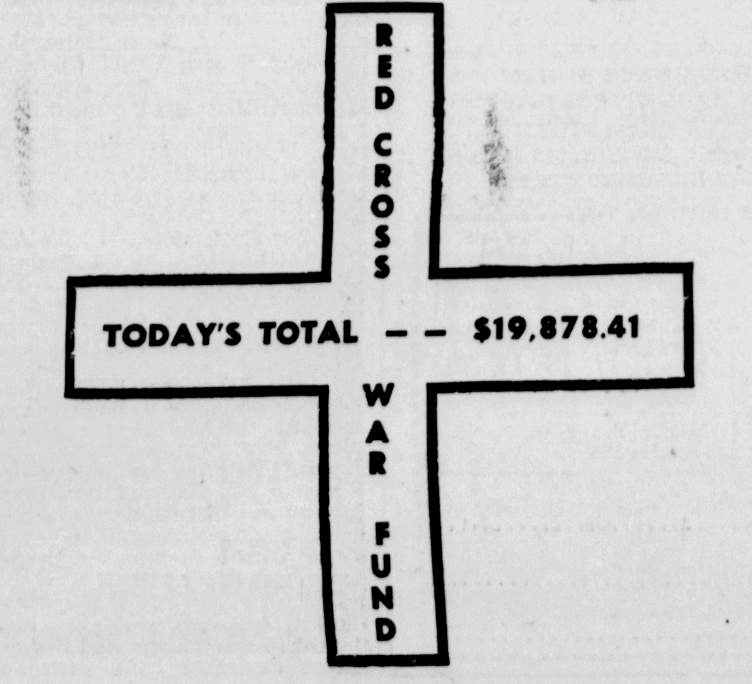

Tojo Makes Boast

In Tokyo, Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo boasted that Japan was assured of further triumphs in "greater East Asia," and declared: "I am not afraid of America, although I do not dismiss lightly the huge military expenditure called for in President Roosevelt's message to Congress."

Tojo asserted that in manpower "Japan tops the world."

Ticket Racket Curbed
President Avila Comacho has taken steps to regulate the ticket speculation which has become a racket in Mexico City for all paid public amusements. A decree provides that speculators shall be allowed half of the orchestra accommodations in theatres, concert halls and like amusement places and half of those in the grandstands at bullfights and football and baseball matches. Speculators may charge 25 per cent over face value of tickets, but no more.

John B. Dunn Is To Hold Talk on Priority Problems

John B. Dunn, priority executive and analyst of the New York Priorities Field Service, Division of Industry, will be in Kingston on Tuesday to discuss with local business men, their respective priority problems. Interviews will be by appointment at the city hall between the hours of 9 and 5. Interested Kingston manufacturers are asked to make their advance appointments through Mayor William F. Edelmuth.

Mr. Dunn is one of several traveling priority officers who will serve 10 upstate Hudson river industrial communities in a program just developed by the New York Priorities Field Service office. According to Sydney H. Houghton, priorities district manager, this is the first time planned priority "coverage" is being carried out. Queries and visits by upstate business men revealed a definite need for such a "traveling priority service". It is planned, subject to change, to visit each one of the communities at least once a month.

Though he will not himself grant priorities, Mr. Dunn will answer questions on procedure, provide basic application forms, and in general give advice on the priorities system. A graduate of Colgate University, Mr. Dunn is unusually familiar with upstate manufacturing and distributing problems. His experience has included a wide range of executive activity in the field of modern management, particularly in marketing, advertising and production.

His next scheduled stop will be Albany, although present plans call for Mr. Dunn to return for another priority clinic here on Tuesday, February 10.

Mr. Dunn's visit to Kingston, it is felt, should do much to speed the flow of materials to plants in this area engaged in war or essential civilian production. It will also guarantee manufacturers in purely civilian industry a fair and full hearing on applications for needed materials.

Your Guide to Air Raid Safety

The shaded portions of the circles indicate the degree of danger under various conditions. The Anderson shelter, common in England, is protected by heavy gauge corrugated sheet steel, covered with two and a half feet of earth. Tests have shown that such a shelter will withstand shrapnel and bomb fragments from hits as close as 30 feet.

Air raid precautions experts point out that the percentages shown in the chart are general and do not take into consideration the possibility of direct hits.

1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 pint hot milk
Sugar and cinnamon

Simmer cream and water, 45 minutes to 1 hour, stirring occasionally. Combine flour and salt, sift into hot cream, beat until smooth and cook until thick and butter fat rises to top. Remove fat and save. Stir in hot milk and beat well. Pudding should be very smooth and creamy. Pour into a bowl and make depressions on top for butter fat. Serve hot in dessert dishes with sugar and cinnamon sprinkled on top. The pudding is not a success unless the fat rises to top after flour is added. Serves 6 to 8.

Frozen Prune Pudding
1/2 cup cooked prunes
2 eggs
1/2 cup confectioners' sugar
1/4 cup orange juice
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Cook prunes until tender, remove pits and mash pulp. Beat eggs and beat in confectioners' sugar gradually. Add prunes, orange juice and salt. Fold in whipped cream. Freeze in refrigerator tray until firm. Serves 6.

In places liable to be open at night for business it was suggested that action be taken at once to cover all windows, so that in case of a blackout it would not be necessary to turn off lights suddenly and leave merchandise at the mercy of a house full of strange people.

The mayor said that the time of the next blackout would not be made known definitely. It is desired to learn what parts of the city cannot hear the warning signals, so that additional signals can be installed; also they desire to learn just how well the present wardens, watchers and messengers, operate. "We must simulate the actual conditions of an air raid as nearly as possible and that means we will not have much warning," it was stated. All post wardens were asked to note carefully whether or not warning signals were heard and to report immediately after the all clear signal sounds.

Following the mayor's talk Chief Murphy gave a showing of the picture illustrating the work done by an incendiary bomb and the proper method of handling the burning bomb and the fire set. These magnesium bombs are about 14 inches long, two inches in diameter and weigh around two pounds each. One bomber can carry 2,000 bombs.

The picture showed sand being used to control the bombs, with water sprayed from a knapsack fire extinguisher being used to finally extinguish the fire and a heavier stream to be used to put out fire about the room which had spread from the bomb.

Warning was given regarding getting too close to the burning bomb during the early stages of the explosion; also against using a heavy stream of water on the bomb.

The picture was shown by Gordon K. Mullins, fire instructor of the state department of education. Chief Murphy has been showing these pictures in the schools and at other gatherings in this vicinity recently.

Mayor Addresses Kiwanis Club

Fire Chief Shows Moving Picture on Bombs

The program portion of the weekly meeting of Kiwanis Thursday was given over to a talk by Mayor William F. Edelmuth on civilian defense and what has been done in Kingston to meet any eventuality; also a movie, with descriptive lecture, shown under direction of Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, showing approved methods of handling incendiary bombs and controlling fires started by these bombs.

In his introduction Mayor Edelmuth referred to the fact that every adult American today is concerned over the outcome of the war and the safety of the American way of life. Conducive to this state of mind he noted the disruption of daily activities as movements and purchases are subordinated to requirements of the national government; economic dislocations brought about as large masses of people give up their normal activities to take up work for the government; heavy taxes of various forms all must meet to support the national effort "so that our armed forces and those of our allies may have proper equipment to meet and conquer the greatest horde of cutthroats that history records."

The wide use of the plane for war purposes, making the problems of this war entirely different from any previous war, with no community immune from attack, was given as the reason for the various civilian defense efforts.

The mayor noted that in the late summer of 1940 the President directed that a civilian defense committee be set up in every community, which was done, following which these groups, with the American Legion began formulating plans for home defense. From observations made by Army observers in England plans for civilian organization in the United States were formulated and published in the spring of 1941. The plans followed the general framework of those used in England, modified to suit conditions here.

Kingston Post, American Legion, took steps to put the plans into effect in this city.

This plan, said the speaker, insofar as it applies to the first points of attack by an enemy, has been in operation since June, 1941, and is being perfected in a practical way, by trial and error since that time. Continuing the mayor said:

"The first points of attack are from the air and to combat such an attack an organization called Air Raid Wardens was brought into being. This organization, based on the army plan, is a body of men, women and children, which covers the entire city. They have had training in the handling of incendiary fires, first aid and police work."

"The emergency air raid warning brings this group into active operation, its objective being to keep conditions under control throughout the city. If help is needed, the control headquarters called for assistance from the police, fire or ambulance services. Other services are called as needed."

"The organization of the air raid wardens is as follows: A zone warden for each ward. Immediately under the zone warden is a sector warden for each 300 people. The sector is divided into three posts, each in charge of a post warden. The post warden has at least three assistants, one of whom has had first-aid training, another fire training and another police training. In that manner they are equipped to handle any situation until further aid can be called, which is done by telephone, motorcycle, bicycle or runner."

Every household in Kingston was urged to make the acquaintance of the post warden in his vicinity. Commenting on the registration of about 5,500 residents of Kingston for civilian defense, during the drive which ended in mid-October, the mayor found that there are some 14,000 voters in the city, in addition to large numbers of young people under voting age.

Concerning fire control the mayor said "Chief Murphy has availed himself of every opportunity possible to acquire knowledge about handling fires resulting from incendiary bombs. He has been giving instructions and constructive talks about this type of fire and other common small fires that occur in the home, since the early part of September. Every man, woman and child over 14 years of age in the city should see his pictures of incendiary bomb fire control and hear his instruction on handling some of the small fires that occur in homes every day."

To Have Blackout
"We expect to have another blackout in the near future," said the mayor, "and hope that the entire community of Ulster can join in the public as a whole co-operated very well during the last blackout," he said, "the only violations being one or two persons who thought they were above the law, and several proprietors of eating and drinking places, who in their eagerness for business forgot the welfare of the community. To that class of persons we say, Beware. Do not offend again."

It was urgently requested that every person take immediate steps to fix one or two rooms in the home so that windows could be darkened in a few minutes, and so that a normal life could be led even though the raid lasted several hours. Business places of all kinds normally closed at night were advised to have someone, in whom they had confidence, at the building as a fire watcher, to guard the property and to see that all lights were out. That person, it was advised, should be on the roof of the building during a raid to watch for and take care of any incendiary bombs that might strike.

In places liable to be open at night for business it was suggested that action be taken at once to cover all windows, so that in case of a blackout it would not be necessary to turn off lights suddenly and leave merchandise at the mercy of a house full of strange people.

The mayor said that the time of the next blackout would not be made known definitely. It is desired to learn what parts of the city cannot hear the warning signals, so that additional signals can be installed; also they desire to learn just how well the present wardens, watchers and messengers, operate. "We must simulate the actual conditions of an air raid as nearly as possible and that means we will not have much warning," it was stated. All post wardens were asked to note carefully whether or not warning signals were heard and to report immediately after the all clear signal sounds.

Following the mayor's talk Chief Murphy gave a showing of the picture illustrating the work done by an incendiary bomb and the proper method of handling the burning bomb and the fire set. These magnesium bombs are about 14 inches long, two inches in diameter and weigh around two pounds each. One bomber can carry 2,000 bombs.

The picture showed sand being used to control the bombs, with water sprayed from a knapsack fire extinguisher being used to finally extinguish the fire and a heavier stream to be used to put out fire about the room which had spread from the bomb.

Warning was given regarding getting too close to the burning bomb during the early stages of the explosion; also against using a heavy stream of water on the bomb.

The picture was shown by Gordon K. Mullins, fire instructor of the state department of education. Chief Murphy has been showing these pictures in the schools and at other gatherings in this vicinity recently.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Jan. 22—Announcement has been made of the birth of an eight-pound son to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fuller of New York. The new arrival's paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Fuller of Mountain Laurel Lodge, Shokan.

Howard Brooks, formerly of Shokan and for several years a resident of Boston, Mass., and his friend, William Hayden have been spending several days at the home of Mr. Brooks' mother, Mrs. Earl C. Elmendorf.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Scherer of Brooklyn were at their state road place over the week-end.

Dr. George Warren and Mrs. Warren have arrived in town following a sojourn of several weeks in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Elder Arnold H. Bellows of West Hurley preached in the Olive and Hulse O. S. Baptist meeting house last Sunday. Baptists from Kingston and several other communities attended the services.

The sale being held at the corner store for the benefit of the Red Cross emergency fund is proving a success according to Postmaster Alva Winchell who is in charge of the sale.

Not only have there been a large number of articles sold during the past week but there remains a fine assortment of fancy work, glassware, books, clothing, etc., on the counter. The sale will be continued for at least another week in order that everyone may have an opportunity to make contributions and purchase something.

Raymond Cruthers and family of New Jersey called on friends in the village Sunday.

The east basin of the Ashokan Reservoir now looks more like a river than a lake. Judging by the width and incline of the shore line the ice-coated water covering the old Beaverkill Swamp is getting shallow. Farther east, a cross elevation in the basin floor appears to have all but cut off the West Hurley dike area from the main body of water extending from Glenford to the dividing weir.

Fortunately, the rain of Monday cleared contributory streams of ice with the result that a good deal of water is pouring into the reservoir at this time.

A supply of motor vehicle tax stamps has been received at the local post office.

The local bridge club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Vander Osten on the old state road. The hostess at next week's games will be Miss Carrie Brooks of Shokan.

Mrs. P. T. Sahlbeck gave a card party at her north boulevard home

Wednesday evening for the benefit of the Red Cross fund. At a similar party held in the Reformed Church basement last week $36 was realized, according to Miss Edna Longyear who arranged the social. The figure includes receipts from the auction sale of cakes at the party as well as donations of money from a number of persons who did not attend. Instrumental music was furnished during the evening by Dr. Kurt W. Lowenthal, a new resident of Shokan who has opened an office here for the practice of medicine.

Four Youths Die In Auto Crash At New Rochelle

New Rochelle, N. Y., Jan. 23 (AP)

Four 18-year-old New Rochelle youths were killed early today when their automobile sideswiped another, careened off a tree and wrapped itself around a second tree.

The dead were James Bugle, Lucas Loewe, Dennis Devlin and Edward G. Mangels. William Morton McMahon, 20, driver of the other car, was unhurt.

McMahon, whose 1929 sedan was only slightly damaged, told police the accident happened at about 3:30 o'clock.

He said the car in which his four friends were riding struck his as both were traveling north on North avenue at Broadway avenue.

Young Bugle, son of New Rochelle Patrolman Robert Bugle, lived at 30 Eastchester Road.

Loewe's address was 887 Webster avenue, Devlin's 129 Van Gilder avenue and Mangels' 12 Halcyon Terrace. McMahon lives at 67 Paine avenue.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JANUARY 23, 1942.

YOUR BIRTH RECORD

There has been an ever increasing demand recently for official proof of birth because of such requirement in many occupations and for enlistments in the armed forces of the nation as well as for selective service registration purposes. Passage of the Social Security Law also brought new interest into many persons' natal day.

It has been no uncommon experience on the part of those who have reached middle age to find that they arrived in the world when all vital statistics were not recorded. There was no compulsory law requiring physicians in those days to file birth reports with the proper authorities and as a result birth records in many municipalities and villages are far from complete. In Kingston the birth records go back to 1881, but they are not entirely complete as many persons have recently learned. It was not until the state made it compulsory a few years ago for all births to be reported to the Board of Health, that Kingston's records were registered completely by the registrar of vital statistics. Because registration of births was begun in Kingston in 1881, it has been erroneously assumed by many that every birth here was thereafter promptly written into the city's birth record.

A further demand for birth certificates is anticipated with the coming selective service registrations for men in the age groups of between 20 and 45 and the group between 45 and 64.

In the absence of official municipal birth records, many young people have been successful in securing their date of birth from the attending physician. Older folks have secured the necessary data from records in churches, where they were baptized, and still others have obtained the information from school records.

Motorists of the nation have been warned that continuing to drive at excessive speeds may well make many of them "pedestrians for the duration." Speed is the greatest form of waste in automobile operation. Speeds too fast for conditions are responsible for the vast majority of automobile fatalities. Motorists, who are fortunate enough to have an automobile in safe condition, should at least cooperate to the extent of driving carefully.

That the elimination of the Broadway crossing has been deferred while we are in a great struggle to defend our country comes as no great surprise to local residents. Steel needed in the construction work is required for armaments. Despite the urgency for the elimination of the death trap here, it can continue to stand as it has in the past. Other public building projects must also be deferred during the great emergency.

SOAP

In a large Chicago hotel it is the full-time job of one girl to take care of the wafers of soap left in rooms by guests. These are collected, shaved up smaller still, melted with water over a hot fire which gives no clinging germ the chance of an ice-cube you know where. The mixture is then cooled and goes to the laundry for the washing of blankets and table linen.

In comparatively few American homes has soap been made since pioneering days. The science and art have been given over to the big manufacturers with excellent results. And indeed Americans do not have to treasure every drop of grease for soap-making. Soap is and will continue to be purchasable cheaply and in quantity here and in Canada. But small pieces might be saved in homes as in hotels. Soap is an extremely important factor in disease-prevention as well as in the upholding of morale.

IF BOMBS FALL HERE

That our art museums take the bomb menace seriously is no secret. Already the most valuable objects have been shipped from institutions along the coast to points far inland. Paintings have been classified as to importance and labeled, to ensure the prompt rescue of irreplaceable treasures. Sand, shovels, blackout materials, candles, and whatever else could be thought of as essential—all have been obtained. Arrangements have been made for the protection of visitors who might be caught within the walls during a raid. The staffs have been instructed in first aid, and in the actions necessary to protect both the museums themselves and their occupants.

All these elaborate precautions may be totally unnecessary, but who can tell? The French thought precautions unnecessary behind the Maginot line.

BELIEVING WHAT YOU HEAR

Savings will not be confiscated, says Secretary Morgenthau. No sensible person thought they would be. Such measures are taken only by a country at the end of its rope, and we have hardly begun to utilize our resources.

Such stories may have been spread by those who wish us ill. They are more likely to have arisen from foolish people who like to startle their hearers. We all know the type of person who suspects the worst because Mr. Jones rushed hastily out of his house yesterday morning, apparently without saying goodbye to his wife. Such people are mere scandal-mongers and sensationalists, not traitors; but that does not prevent them from being used by traitors. It will pay to keep a firm rein on our thoughts and words.

WAR DELIVERY

In some cities they are cutting milk deliveries down to one every two days. This makes the job easier and frees men for other work. And it does no harm to the milk, this time of year at least, if the delivered milk is cared for promptly or weather-proof receptacles are provided. Such a practice, if widely adopted, may be expected to last through the war.

This is merely one phase of a growing lack of man-power and boy-power, which will grow and spread. Wars are won not only by military training, weapons and materials, but by intelligent support on the home front. There are a thousand ways in which military service can be given by civilians, including the boys and girls.

President Roosevelt reminds the nation, and himself, that he can fire cabinet members. Well, most wars have been won that way.

PROTRUDING EARS

There was a time when the idea of anyone having plastic operations to straighten a "hooked" nose, snub nose or protruding ears, was considered improper. The face should be left as Nature made it, was the feeling.

What was not realized was the distress and embarrassment of these individuals which led to an inferiority complex.

During the past twenty years the effect on the mind and emotions of individuals suffering from deformities of the ears has caused physicians and surgeons to give more consideration to these defects. Dr. Hamilton Baxter, Department of Plastic Surgery, Children's Memorial Hospital, Montreal, in the Canadian Medical Association Journal, states that the most important effect of protruding ears on a child is on the mind and the emotions. This effect is a feeling of inferiority which may cause the child to avoid meeting and playing with other youngsters, or perhaps develop a super-abundance of self-expression in an effort to make up for his lowered morale or self-esteem. "Children have a keen ability to detect the unusual, and any abnormality in a playmate is the object of frank curiosity and ridicule. Almost always the child is given a nickname which refers to his defect. The child feels that as the defect is permanent, the nickname will stick to him all his life."

Dr. Baxter outlines the various types of protruding ears—ears that stand out almost like wings—and the method suited to each type.

What can and should be done for these children? As these protruding ears interfere with the child's health and happiness, the parents should see that they are corrected, because this defect can be corrected. When funds are low, the surgical clinic of the nearest hospital will make the correction without charge. While these defects can be corrected at any age, "the correction is more easily obtained in a very young child since the cartilage is softer and more pliable." The best time is between two to five years of age.

"This means that the child will enter school with normally shaped ears which will not cause unfavorable comment from classmates."

Acne—Pimples

Acne (pimples) is another condition which causes the boy and girl, and adults, also, much embarrassment and distress. Send today for Dr. Barton's new leaflet entitled "Pimples—Acne" (No. 11), which gives many helpful suggestions in dealing with this ailment. Enclose ten cents with your request to cover cost of handling and mailing and address it to The Bell Library, Post Office Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y., mentioning the Kingston Daily Freeman.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

WALL STREET IS HAPPIER

Babson's Rules for Investors

New York City, Jan. 23, 1942—For the first time in several years there is a gleam of real hope in Wall Street. Stock exchange seats are already selling 40 per cent higher than the 1941 low. Stanley Morgan & Co., probably the wealthiest bond house in America, is, for the first time, buying one or more of these seats. The Securities Exchange Commission is moving to Philadelphia away from the socialistic atmosphere of Washington. Consolidations of investment firms and reductions in operating costs are once more putting these houses into black ink.

Watch Wall Street

It is easy to criticize Wall Street. It has committed many sins in the past. Let me say, however, that no business is today transacted with more scrupulous honesty than now pervades the stock and bond markets. Moreover, the work of investment bankers and brokers is absolutely essential to all lines of business. You, my reader may never have seen a stock or bond; but your employment and wages depend very largely upon whether your employer and his banker have an active and free market for the securities which they own.

Another thing should be recognized about most Wall Street firms. They have a 90 per cent correct record for "calling the turns." They have good "noses" and can smell far ahead. They sense any change in the nation's sentiment better than any other group. This does not mean they can pick the stock market winners. Perhaps their patience to study company reports is not so good as with some of us away from Wall Street. They make many and big mistakes as to what to buy or sell. But their honest judgment as to when to buy or sell is pretty good. Today they believe it is a wonderful time to buy certain stocks.

What to Buy

For the first time since 1939, Wall Street foresees a clear-cut British-American victory. They know that the U. S. now is 100 per cent in the war and that Hitler has passed his peak of power. They believe that airplanes and tanks are to decide the length of the war. They, therefore, feel that, after the producing power of the United States gets into full swing, our planes and tanks, needing comparatively few combat soldiers, will crush the Axis like a steam roller.

Although Washington, where I was yesterday, talks that the war will last for years longer, Wall Street now believes that the active fighting may stop by the winter of 1942-1943. It does expect a very long armistice to follow while peace terms are being discussed. Considering that Wall Street was far more correct in its Japan forecast than was Washington (note how the market discounted this event), Wall Street may be much nearer right on the length of the war. I repeat: Wall Street has awful good "smellers."

Some Wall Street Rules

Wall Street has some rules which it has learned after 100 years of experience. Here are a few:

Eternal vigilance and constant courage are necessary when investing money.

No man ever became poor by taking profits; the only sure way to get profits is to take them when you can.

Buy something which will "pay its board." The tremendous power of compound interest has made most fortunes.

When you are undecided what to do, then do nothing; never take "curb stone" advice. Consider the three "P's"—practice, persistence and patience.

Remember that the market will be here tomorrow. Take time to study and think. Do not cowardly delay action nor be hurried.

Never be "all invested." Always keep a little free cash for the "basement bargain days" which come every so often.

Beware of Debt

Keep out of debt. If your stocks worry you, sell them to the "sleeping point." Look forward, not backward. No grist can be ground by water which has passed over the wheel.

No men are always right, but successful men who have made and kept their money are more often right than expert advisers who cannot pay their own doctor's bills. On the other hand, free advice is usually worth what it costs. Never sell stocks on account of a strike; nor buy them just because higher dividends have been declared.

Buy stocks that have long been inactive rather than the "blue chips" which are being talked of every day.

Cut losses short, using stop-loss selling orders intelligently. Buy when most people are bearish; sell when all your friends are bullish.

Always Diversify

Diversify your holdings. Do not concentrate on any one industry. A "bull" often makes money; a "bear" sometimes makes money; but a "hog" never makes money.

Never buy stocks which do not go up in a bull market because such stocks the insiders don't own. Never sell short those stocks which don't go down in a bear market; the insiders own them also.

When a bear market turns bullish, buy stocks which have gone down the most or those that have gone down the least. Beware of the "middle-of-the-roads."

Try to avoid putting a limit on your orders. Have a broker you can trust and tell him to buy or sell at a "fair market" price.

Remember the Pendulum

Bernard Shaw once said to me in London: "The trouble with you Americans is that you always are boiling hot or icy cold. Success comes from being sensible." This certainly applies to our nation's attitude relative to Wall Street. After the last World War, for ten years America worshipped Wall Street. Then came the crash when we turned our eyes completely away from Wall Street to Main Street. Now maybe the pendulum is beginning to swing back to Wall Street. Think it over! Let's remember what Bernard Shaw said and "be sensible."

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

Former Alderman John A. Fischer of Abel street, the man who had purchased and dismantled the old Mary Powell, "Queen of the Hudson River," on October 15, 1923, bought the famous old chain ferry, Riverside, better known as the Skillypot, and also as The Other Side, for that was generally where she was when one wanted to cross the Rondout creek.

With the building of the Rondout Creek Bridge business for the old chain ferry that had plied between Rondout and Sletsburch for a century or more, fell off to such a degree that the ferry was finally abandoned.

At the time the Skillypot was purchased by Mr. Fischer it was berthed on the mud flats at Sletsburch.

Many of the older readers will recall the trips they made back and forth across the creek in the old ferry, which at the time it was taken off the ferry route was probably the oldest chain ferry in operation in the United States.

The same day that the Skillypot was sold William von Berg sold his restaurant in the Advance Building on Wall street, opposite the court house. Mr. von Berg had been operating the restaurant for three years before he disposed of it. He sold it that day to C. Sundorf of New York city, who took immediate possession.

According to an old clipping it was stated that Mr. von Berg planned to remain with the restaurant until the deer hunting season opened.

I also recall that on Thursday morning, October 18, 1923, the teachers' committee of the board of education held a special meeting and appointed E. C. Van Ingen as principal of the Kingston High School.

At the time of Mr. Van Ingen's appointment to have charge of the high school he was in charge of the department of mathematics in the school.

Mr. Van Ingen succeeded Charles W. Lewis who had resigned as principal, and whose resignation became effective on November 1 of that year.

It will be recalled that Mr. Van Ingen served as principal of the high school until shortly after the death of Prof. Myron J. Michael, superintendent of schools, when Mr. Van Ingen was named as superintendent, and held that position for a number of years.

Feat of National Rail Transportation Recently Was Accomplished for Troops of American Army

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 23—Now it can be told. A high government official has released the information that 600,000 troops were moved within the boundaries of the United States in the 16 days before Christmas. But to accomplish that movement, a feat unparalleled in the nation's history must be credited to the railroads of America, their executives and their workers.

Nearly all the railroads, involving more than 200,000 miles of track, were used. Seventy-five per cent of the soldiers actually had sleeping accommodations and the remainder traveled in day coaches, so not a single company had to be moved in freight cars, as was the case in the first World War. This whole troop movement, which embraced travel from nearly every section of the country, was achieved with the loss of only one man—a colored cook who was killed in a minor collision.

For eighteen months the war department and the railroads have been studying this very contingency—what should be done in case of a sudden need for mobilization. Mistakes made in the last war had been surveyed for nearly twenty years. There were in the last few months opportunities to move large contingents of troops for maneuvers but the troop movement just before Christmas was the biggest thing ever attempted on American soil. And it went off with a smoothness that seemed like a routine rehearsal of a long-laid plan.

The colossal job is difficult to describe. It was a mammoth task in planning and administration. The Association of American Railroads, acting for all the railroads, sent out orders and worked on a 24 hour basis, pooling locomotives and cars and fitting in here and there special trains irrespectively of whether the load was enough for a train. It was important to move the troops and get them to their destination and the wires of the railroads were so crowded that at times all forms of communication from telephone to relayed messages through various channels were utilized.

The odd part of it was that the public hardly noticed the movement because delays to civilian traffic were the exception rather than the rule. The American people cooperated. Travel just before Christmas was held down to a minimum. The railroads asked their own employees and families to refrain from using their passes. Here and there regular trains had to be put on sidings but on the whole little time was lost.

What makes the performance of the American railroads even more remarkable is that along with the troops traveled freight cars which bore their supplies and equipment. The soldiers went fully equipped—ready for action. That means they had everything along. To carry this equipment—tanks, guns and ammunition—was a tremendous transportation job in itself. But it was done.

How was such a large number fed? The army carried its own food kitchens which were set up in baggage or freight cars. It took an immense amount of planning, but everything went off without a hitch. The troops were moved—some 600,000 of them—and they arrived at appointed places on a schedule that would have amazed Hitler. For it is doubtful whether he has ever moved so many troops so fast as America did just before Christmas.

To the locomotive engineers, the trainmen, the conductors, the brakemen, the dispatchers, and the hundreds of thousands of maintenance men who worked long hours and with a spirit of co-operation that was typical of their efficiency—for they have always been the forefront of American labor—there is a tribute due, and it will doubtless be forthcoming from official quarters.

There was no confusion, no lost trains—every moment in the day the authorities could keep track of every contingent—and the important thing was that the orders issued immediately after Pearl Harbor were carried out.

Just where the troops were dispatched or what has happened since in the way of additional movements are still military secrets. The railroads get half fare for the troops and it probably cost them a great deal of passenger revenue but when the government called, every thought except the military purpose was subordinated. It was a masterful achievement.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Shwartz

Washington — Most engrossing subject of discussion in official and unofficial Washington right now is: "What's cooking in the Nazi high command?"

Discounting most of it as unfounded, wishful thinking, the fact remains that officials most often right in their past predictions are privately on record that the resignations, "illness" and dismissals currently afflicting the general staff are rumblings of a distant earthquake.

In short, A. Hitler is having his troubles, but plenty.

The list of German generals "busted" since the wehrmacht began its advance toward Berlin in Russia includes men rated by professional soldiers here as tops in the fighting man business. Military scholars have nothing but respect for such men as von Brauchsch, von Kettel, Guderian and von Bock.

These observers don't discount unconfirmed reports of discord in the naval high command as so much superheated balloon juice, either. When it was reported that Vice Admiral Karl Doenitz was at odds with Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, it confirmed informed guesses that all was not a pleasure cruise in the Nazi navy.

Raeder is not held in very high regard by professional sailors. He's been a yes-man for the boss to the point of political groveling. The steadily declining effectiveness of the submarine campaign, and the losses known to have been inflicted on German U-boat strength by British and U. S. fleets in the Atlantic, together indicated some sort of blowoff was imminent. Apparently Doenitz, realizing which way the wind was blowing, got out from under.

Another kernel of information held to be highly significant is that dispatch from Besancon that 62 German soldiers were sent for refusal to return to the Russian front seems to indicate flagging of the fanatic zeal so evident in the early Nazi campaign.

Capital comment often compares the Russian army purges and the present German house-cleaning under Generalissimo Adolf of the inner virtues. Ambassador Joseph Davies' book, "Mission to Moscow," makes it clear that the Russian commanders, a kiss with a bullet got theirs for good reasons such as treason.

It seems obvious now that the Red army generally knew of their conspiracies, and approved their execution. Certainly the magnificent Russian army morale to date indicates confidence in its present leaders.

Further, the Russian purges were carried out in peacetime. The Nazi generals were busted in face of an aggressive enemy.

Finally, men who know army grapevine carries the truth about any development to the lowest ranks. The German army rank and file knows by now that capable generals they respect and followed to great victories were unjustly ousted because they couldn't carry out impossible tasks Hitler assigned them over their protests.

Income Tax

No. 17

EARNED INCOME CREDIT

The law allows in computing the normal tax of an individual an earned income credit of 10 per cent of the earned net income, but not in excess of 10 per cent of the net income. "Earned income" is defined in the law as wages, salaries, professional fees, and other amounts received as compensation for personal services actually rendered. Where a taxpayer is engaged in a trade or business in which both personal services and capital are material income-producing factors, a reasonable allowance as compensation for personal services actually rendered by the taxpayer, not in excess of 20 per cent of his share of the net profits of such trade or business, is considered as earned income. "Earned net income" means the excess of the amount of the earned income deductions, which are the ordinary and necessary expenses properly chargeable against earned income. The entire amount of the taxpayer's net income up to and including $3,000, regardless of the source, is considered earned net income. In no case is the earned net income to be considered to be more than $14,000.

the rear ranks of the wehrmacht aren't going to be bucked up by that knowledge, and it'll weigh even more heavily on the gold brail still in danger of Hitler's tantrums.

Those tantrums of Hitler's, by the way, may be expected to increase. I talked to a famed psychiatrist (who won't be quoted because a lot of quacks have rushed into print with long-range diagnoses of Hitler) and he said it's quite within possibility that the Nazi Mr. Big is well on his way to losing his mental marbles.

He explained it this way: Hitler is obviously unstable mentally. His speeches about his "historic mission" reveal paranoid, messianic delusions. He's had his way for ten years, and those delusions fed on themselves, increased his belief in his own infallibility. His casual reference to his "inner voice" is the tip-off.

Now he isn't having his own way. Some tough Russians are giving the messiah an awful pushing around. But you can bet that Herr Hitler knows it's somebody else's fault, not his own. When a Napoleonic complex is frustrated, it always blames sinister outside influences. It's called delusions of persecution.

It explains in part the shake-up of the German high command for failure to take Moscow, a campaign Hitler reputedly ordered himself. Further reverses will increase Hitler's need for somebody to blame, until his accusations descend to the patently absurd and they give him command of a paper doll army in a padded puzzle factory.

These are some of the speculations current in Washington today. It's safe to say that all is not well within the German high command, that great general staff that performed so brilliantly in years past. It's already had its effort on the German army, which is certainly not the irresistible force that went into Russia last June.

Local Man Found In Garage Badly Overcome by Gas

William Gruenwald, who operates the bakery at 474 Broadway, opposite the municipal auditorium, was found overcome by carbon monoxide gas in the garage in the rear of the bakery about 5 o'clock Thursday evening. He was rushed to the Benedictine Hospital in the Conner ambulance where his condition today was reported as good.

According to the police report Mr. Gruenwald had gone out to the garage to work on his car. Later his son, Harold, went out to the garage and found the doors partly closed and his father sitting on the running board of the car in a semi-conscious condition. The motor of the car was running and the small building was filled with the fumes of carbon monoxide.

Officer Elbert Soper had just driven up in front of the bakery to purchase some foodstuffs and as he entered the store he was asked to assist with Mr. Gruenwald. Officer Soper ran out to the garage and helped carry Gruenwald into the rear of the bakery and then told the clerk to call the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp. asking that the emergency crew be sent with the inhalator and also to call a physician and notify the police department.

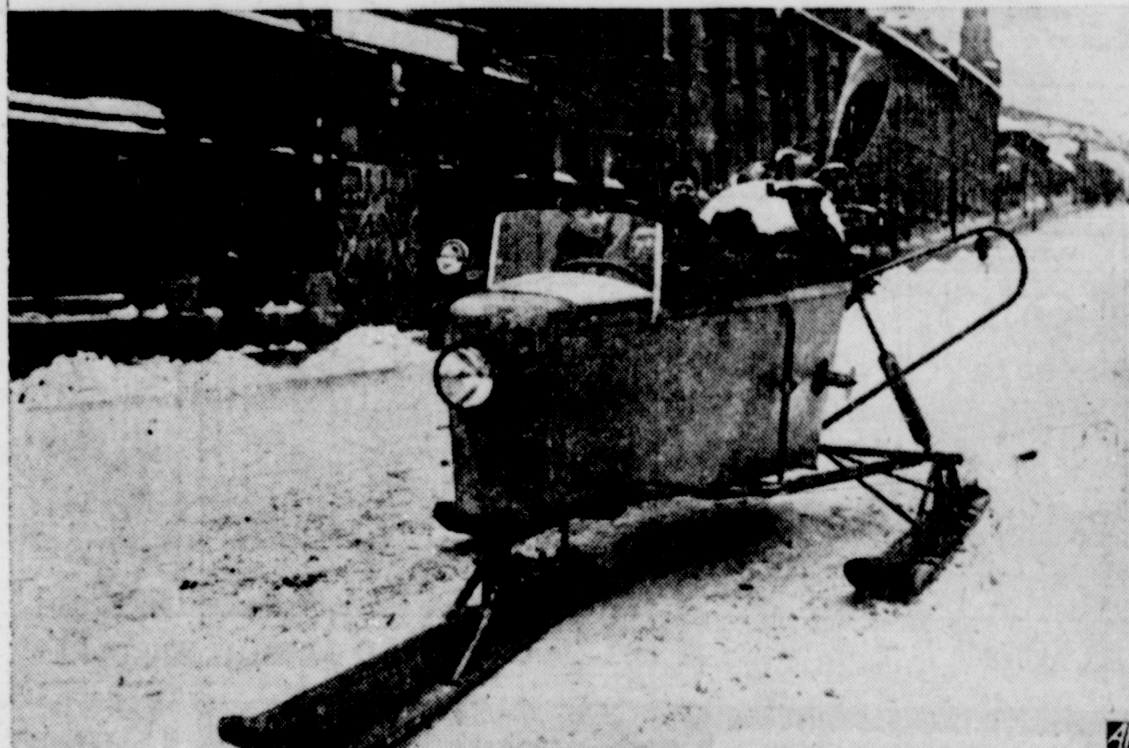

The Central Hudson crew responded as did Officers Burns and McGrane in the radio car. Dr. John Olivet also responded to the call.

Officer Howard Kinch on patrol duty in that vicinity assisted in applying artificial respiration. Later Mr. Gruenwald was removed to the hospital in the Conner ambulance which had been called.

The police department received the call for aid at 5:15 o'clock that afternoon, according to the notation on the police blotter.

Discovery of Mr. Gruenwald's plight by his son, and the prompt response to the call for aid saved his life.

tion of tanks and combat vehicles is more than three times that of a year ago; guns of all types nearly five times as large; ammunition, nine times. "We already are producing light and medium tanks in quantities and the first heavy tank was delivered to the army the day we declared war on Japan."

At the time of the attack on Pearl Harbor, the navy was building 15 battleships to add to its 17 already built; 11 aircraft carriers building; 7 built; 54 cruisers building; 37 built; 193 destroyers building; 171 built; 73 submarines building; 113 built—in all 346 building, 345 built.

The navy also had under construction by the end of 1941 a total of 96 auxiliaries, 243 mine craft, 225 patrol boats; and had added 2,000 new planes to its air arm.

Lend-lease supplies have expanded from a trickle to a stream that "must become a river, a torrent, and then a flood." These funds have helped the army ferrying command deliver more than 1,100 planes purchased by Britain, and are bulwarking defenses through construction of British bases at Rangoon in Burma, at Karachi on the Arabian sea, and other vital outposts on the Persian Gulf and in Eritrea. Lend-lease air for China was described as "far from adequate," as was that for Russia, although shipments of oil, gasoline and other supplies to the latter country are expected to be "stepped up rapidly."

The report said 5,000,000 workers had been drawn into war industries and 15,000,000 more would be needed by 1944. Some labor shortages would be unavoidable, it said, but an unprecedented training program would furnish most of the retirements.

An estimated 500,000 women and girls are already at war jobs, many in aircraft plants. A woman's "land army" may have to be recruited to meet a threatened shortage of farm labor.

Aid for East Is Heartening to U. S. As Japs Push On

Certainly Australia, which today is worried over the possibility of a Jap attempt at invasion, must be expected to look mainly to Uncle Sam for assistance.

Falls on Uncle Sam
In other words, the weight of the battle of the Pacific must fall increasingly on Uncle Sam's broad (we believe) shoulders.

In the matter of the time element, the grand defense of the Philippines by General MacArthur and his stout Minute Men, has been a Godsend. The Dutch and British defense in the Malay-Singapore-Indies zone also has delayed the Japanese program.

The Mikado's forces themselves, however, have given the allies excellent cooperation through inability to take advantage of the flying start achieved by back-alley tactics at Hawaii. The Japs haven't done as well as they should during the seven weeks since they used the dagger, for their game was to have seized the Philippines and other main bases before the allies could get aid to the Orient.

That they haven't done better is a reproach to their military capabilities. One can hardly charge this failure to the German advisers in Tokyo, since they aren't responsible for the quality of the material they have to work with.

Three Main Threats
There are three outstanding threats to the allied positions in the Orient today, and they are these:

Japanese forces have landed in New Guinea, only a hundred miles north of the Australian mainland, and on New Britain Island and the Solomons to the east. Very naturally this has aroused the gravest concern in Australia, since there is no doubt whatever that the Japanese intend sooner or later to try to annex that continent.

However, such an effort would seem to be a matter of the distant future. Of more immediate concern is the fact that the Japs have acquired in New Guinea a base which may enable them to bring heavy bombing pressure on the neighboring Australian naval and military base of Darwin. This also places a further Japanese barrier across the sea routes from America to Singapore.

On the Malay peninsula the allied forces today launched a counter-offensive in an effort to relieve the threat to Singapore. Fierce fighting at close quarters was proceeding, and the best that could be said was that the allied troops were in a tough spot, particularly because of Japanese control of the air. Still, it should be remembered that the citadel of Singapore itself should be able to withstand a long siege.

Numerically superior Japanese and Thai forces, which are driving against Burma, today compelled the British to withdraw from the mountains east of Moulmein to points where communications were better. The nature of the threat here already has been explained. Despite this Jap challenge, however, it would be a shocking thing to learn that the British were too weak to hold this vital country. American air fighters, by the way, were patrolling with the British today over Rangoon, the Burmese capital.

they will be available at the right time." He also said:

"When you are flying, and particularly when you are carrying out training, there comes a time when the air gets saturated with airplanes, beyond which you have the danger of collisions and a high accident rate."

"So, rather than go through any such unfortunate situation as that, we prefer to build new schools where we will not have that overlapping in the air."

Air fields, the chief said, are located mostly in the center of the country but nevertheless are arranged so that "the necessary number of combat planes" could be quickly concentrated in the areas about Boston, New York, Washington, Charleston or elsewhere.

Kingston Man Is Office Manager of Army Movies

Fort Dix, N. J., Jan. 23 (AP)—The uniformed patrons of the six movie theatres here have film preferences as diverse as their lives are standardized. Everything from slapstick to Shakespeare, comedies, dramas, western and dramas are shown to the soldiers who lay out $1.40 for a book of 10 admissions.

Abbot and Costello, Gary Cooper and Gene Tierney are favorites.

A policy of first run picture was inaugurated by the war department six months ago and since that time such pictures as "Honky Tonk" and "Smiling Thru" were shown here before their Broadway unveiling.

The six theatres, with a combined capacity of 4,650 men, do an average monthly business of 60,000 patrons.

Lieutenant James G. Dill, Fort Dix theatre officer, is head of the theatre operations. Under him is a managerial and technical staff of 15 soldiers and his office manager, Sergeant A. E. Morris, of Kingston, N. Y.

Private O'Pezzo's Prayer
Grant this, O God, that I might be of service to my land.
That I might serve it for a year with heart, and head, and hand.
And ere the year has gone, I pray the folks back home will see That I'm a better citizen than the one I used to be.
And may the time come, Lord, when I can show my Uncle Sam, Not what I was, but what I want to be, but what I really am.
I want to be the best Draftee Fort Jackson ever knew.
And if I am, I won't forget to give my thanks to You.
Now, Lord, since you're a busy man, I'll stop and call again: You won't forget to answer this, my prayer, O Lord—Amen.
—By Private Joseph O'Pezzo, Thirteenth Infantry, Fort Jackson, S. C.

Maid—No need of you doing that, ma'am. I'm not afraid to come home in the dark.

A high authority on children warns parents that warm clothes are of prime importance during the winter as a health measure. Teachers say, however, there is just as much sickness among boys, all of whom are heavily clothed from head to foot, as among girls, who go bare-legged and bare-headed, and on whose bodies there is not enough clothing to wad a shotgun. Now why is this?

A patient in a lunatic ward insisted he was Adolf Hitler.

Patient—God gave it to me.

No, I didn't, answered a voice from a neighboring bed.

Recently a movie comedy showed on the screen a levy of shapely girls disrobing for a plunge in the "old Swimming Pool." They had just taken off their shoes, hats, coats and were beginning to—passing freight train dashed across the screen and obscured the view. When it had passed, the girls were frolicking in the water. An old railroader sat through the show again and again. At length an usher tapped him on the shoulder.

Usher—Aren't you ever going home?

Railroader—Oh, I'll wait awhile. One of these times that train's going to be late!

Which would you rather do? Showel snow off a half-block of sidewalk, when the thermometer registers zero and below, or push an old lawn mower around a half-block of ground when it's sizzling hot?

Guard against wear and tear on your house and furnishings. Keep all plumbing in good order. Learn how to do the small jobs yourself from the Department of Agriculture's booklet: "Simple Plumbing Repairs in the Home." Switch rugs to different positions to avoid wear in one spot and change drapes around to avoid fading. Make glass curtains with top and bottom hems of the same width so they can be reversed and thus give longer wear. Don't have loose wiring running around walls or under rugs in extension cords. They tend to grow worn, cause short-circuits and start fires. It is cheaper and safer to have new electric outlets installed.

DO TIME FOR LOVE

Chapter 26

Flight

NEARING the Inn Lavinia saw people upon the wide verandah, and tried to rearrange her features, as it were, so as not to give away her real feelings. Several people looked up at the mounted steps, and she immediately sensed excitement in the air.

Groups were talking in an excited, tense sort of way—as though something extraordinary had taken place. She was tempted to stop and make inquiries, but knew this would mean being drawn into conversation. It would be better to get to her room and rest for a time. She had no desire for dinner. She much preferred to stretch out upon her bed and try to collect her thoughts.

But before she could reach her room Margot Linden saw her. She came hurrying forward.

"Where on earth have you been all day?" she asked, excitedly.

"With my aunt in Portland," said Lavinia. "We lunched and saw a movie."

"And missed all the excitement!" Margot said. "Imagine, those government men locating the escaped prisoners, and actually rounding them up!"

"You—you—mean they came here?" Lavinia said in a voice she scarcely recognized as her own.

"Yes, they were in the Inn," said Margot. "It seems that several men in and near Harbor Head have been helping the men who escaped from Canada—supplying them with outfits, and aiding in any way possible. You know, enemies of the Allies—that sort of thing."

"Yes, I—I—know," said Lavinia.

"They even used their boats to aid the men," Margot rushed on. "But the government representatives got them all. They were marched off today, to be locked up awaiting trial."

Lavinia couldn't speak. Her thoughts were running around in mad circles. Rod gone. Also his boat. Rod, who had been so reticent about himself. The odd way he had acted the night before. Could he have known this was going to happen? Was that why he had said he had no right to kiss her?

"Was—my friend—" she tried to speak lightly, "was he an escaped prisoner, or one of the men who helped?"

"I don't know—only he did have a boat," said Margot. "You ought to remember that."

"So you know about the trip?"

"Who doesn't?"

"I suppose you all lined up on the porch with field glasses the day Rod took me to the island?" Margot laughed. "No, not as bad as all that, my dear!" she said. "But I warned you there's always a lot of gossip at a summer resort!"

"And how right you were!" said Lavinia. "I'm sorry I missed all the excitement. You must tell me more about it later on. I'm going up now and get a little rest. Aunt Dorcas and I had a strenuous day."

Margot touched her arm as she turned to go.

"Tell me something, Miss Prentiss," she said.

"What is it?" said Lavinia.

"Maybe I'm barging in where I've no business," Margot said, "but you hadn't grown fond of the Elliott man, had you? Just between ourselves."

"How ridiculous!" Lavinia exclaimed, praying that her voice carried conviction. "Do I look like the sort of brainless female who'd grow fond of a chance acquaintance—who—who was afraid to come out and mix with honest people?"

Margot shrugged. "Well, I just wondered," she said. "You did spend a lot of time with him."

"He amused me," said Lavinia.

"That's all."

With this she stepped into the elevator, and was carried up to her room.

She bathed her face, kicked off her shoes, and flung herself down upon the bed. Tears came finally. Then sobs—sobs that shook her from head to foot. Another choking sob, and then quietness. It was then that Lavinia made herself look matters squarely in the face. And when she did she knew she could not stay on at the Inn.

She sprang from the bed. She reached for the telephone and asked for the room clerk.

"Will you please make out my bill?" she said, when a voice answered her call. "Miss Lavinia Prentiss speaking."

"But, Miss Prentiss, your bill isn't due yet," said the clerk.

"Yes, I know. But I'm leaving. I find I must get back to New York as quickly as possible."

"Not tonight, I trust."

"No, the first thing in the morning."

"We're sorry to have you go, Miss Prentiss."

"Thank you," said Lavinia, and hung up.

Then she began taking her clothes out of the closet. Good-bye to castles in Maine. Good-bye to foolish dreams. Hello, Manhattan! How do you do, Armworth's!

Home Again

GRAND CENTRAL Station again. Lavinia following a redcap who carried her luggage—following him, but glancing up now and then at the artificial stars high up in the vaulted ceiling.

"They sure do look real, don't they?"

UNION CENTER

Union Center, Jan. 22—Tax collector Merritt Soper is ill. Lewis Schultz and Mrs. Jacob Frost are collecting at the designated places according to the notices posted.

Mrs. C. Terpenning is recovering from an attack of grip.

Chester Halstein has recovered from an attack of pneumonia and is able to be out again.

Mrs. Robert Fowler and Dorothy Shaw spent Thursday night

they, miss?" said the redcap, grinning.

"Yes," said Lavinia, "they do."

And she remembered the stars up at Harbor Head, the stars that twinkled down at the ocean, the stars she and Rod Elliott had looked at and talked about.

"Sometimes I wondered if they are inhabited," Rod had said. "And if they are, I hope things are in better shape up there than down here."

"If you look at 'em long enough, miss," the redcap was saying, "you can see 'em twinkling."

"Yes, I know," Lavinia said. "I've done it."

They moved on across the huge rotunda.

"Did you want a taxicab, miss?"

"Yes. But I want to send a telegram first."

"There's a Western Union stand right over there, miss."

"Thank you."

Lavinia wrote a short message to her aunt. "Back home again. To heck with romance."

Then she paid the clerk, and went back to where the redcap was waiting. She thought, "Thus endeth the first lesson in romance—and what a lesson! She tipped the redcap generously, told the taxi driver her address, and leaned back against the badly-worn upholstery."

What a homecoming? What a vacation! She felt cheated, and oddly disappointed. She closed her eyes, squeezing the lids tight against the tears that tried to flow. She wondered what her aunt would say—what she would do—what she would think, when the telegram reached her. It ought to arrive in Portland within a few hours, that is, if the girl got it off immediately.

Dorcas To The Rescue

AND the girl did get the wire off immediately. It reached Miss Dorcas Prentiss in record-breaking time. It found her sitting on a high stool in Professor Plunkett's woodshed. There was a clothespin on her nose, and a notebook in her hand.

"If you don't hurry up this research business," she said to the Professor, "the health department is going to do some researching. My, that whale smells unpleasant."

"Even with the nose-pin on your clothes?" said the Professor. "I mean, even with the clothespin on your nose?"

Miss Dorcas laughed. "Yes," she said. "And, frankly, Professor Plunkett, I'm beginning to feel a decided lack of interest over the kinship between that Jonah-swallowing mammal and the dinosaur."

"There, there, Miss Dorcas," the Professor chided, "don't let a little unpleasant odor discourage you."

It was at this point that Mrs. Plunkett came out to the woodshed bearing Lavinia's telegram.

"For me?" said Miss Dorcas.

"Yes," said Mrs. Plunkett, "it just came."

Miss Dorcas laid down the notebook, took off the clothespin, and tore open the envelope.

"I hope some ambitious archaeologists aren't after me to get off on another digging expedition," she said. Then: "Oh, it's from my niece."

The Professor examined a piece of bone with a magnifying glass, and Mrs. Plunkett watched him, holding a handkerchief to her nose.

"Well!" Miss Dorcas exploded. "Nothing unpleasant, I hope, my dear," said Mrs. Plunkett.

"Do they want you to go into a jungle again, Miss Dorcas?" asked the Professor.

"No," said Miss Dorcas. "It's a message from Lavinia Prentiss, the niece I told you about."

"Is she ill?"

"No, she's not ill. She's cut short her vacation and gone home."

"But why should she do that?" Mrs. Plunkett wanted to know.

"That's what I'm going to find out," said Miss Dorcas. She got down off the high stool. Professor Plunkett, you'll have to get along without me from now on."

The Professor looked up, pushing his glasses high up upon his forehead. "What's that, Miss Dorcas?" he said.

"She said you'd have to get along without her from now on," said his wife, "Ethelbert, I wish you would pay attention to what people say."

"But, Miss Dorcas," the Professor said, ignoring his wife's remark, "I can't get along without you!"

"You'll have to," said Miss Dorcas.

"Why—why—the research is at a critical point," said the Professor, much distressed. "I've discovered a decided similarity in the vertebra of the whale and the prehistoric animals, and now—"

"Sorry," said Miss Dorcas briskly, "but I've an idea my niece is on the verge of making a mess of her life. The business of vertebra will have to wait. Maybe I'm being silly and precipitous, but I can't help feeling, Professor, that my niece's heart is more important than a whale's backbone."

No amount of argument would make Miss Dorcas change her mind.

"And so you're going to leave me all alone with the whale," the Professor said sadly.

"You've got your wife," said Miss Dorcas. "Why can't she take notes for you?"

"And smell that awful odor!" said Mrs. Plunkett. "No indeed."

and Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pallen and Mrs. Jennie Terpenning of Esopus.

Natalie Sharp of Kingston called on Roberta Fowler Tuesday afternoon.

Kingston High Will Play Newburgh Tonight at Auditorium

Triumph Will Give Either Team Third Place in Circuit

Monties and Middletown Battle for First Slot at Middle Gym; Game at 8:15

Two berth in the DUSO Basketball League might be settled by about 10:30 o'clock tonight when Kingston High School entertains Newburgh at the municipal auditorium and Middletown plays host to Monticello.

At the local court the two clubs will start action at 8:15 o'clock to decide the undisputed holder of third place in the league standings. In Middletown the Middies will be out to protect their seven-game winning streak and their place position in the loop.

Kingston looks like the team to enter tonight's clash at the Broadway boards as the favorite. The Maroon and White cagers were humbled by the strong Monticello club last week but showed plenty of grit in going down fighting.

Sagendorf Is Key

As a result of the games played to date one man in the Kingston line-up stands as the key man of the squad. That player without a doubt is Rod Sagendorf, the present high scorer of the league with a half hundred points. When Sagendorf is hot, the whole team is dangerous. When the young forward ace is so-so, the entire team is just that.

Kingston needs Sagendorf in sensational form tonight if it wishes to knock off Newburgh. The Goldbacks have the power and the Maroons must be able to check this and at the same time, offer an attack of their own.

Coach G. Warren Kins' other hopefuls are Captain Ray Herrick, who is coming into his own as a reliable scorer this year; George Zelle, Al Zadany and Ed Luedtke. Bill Tierney can be counted upon to give reserve duty for the Kinsmen.

Monticello, in second place but only a width of a hair in back of the pace-setting Middies, has an excellent chance of moving into first place with a win tonight. Herb Avery and Chet Gray, two of the league's ace scorers, will be ready for the Monties.

Last year more than 1,100 fans turned out to see these two clubs battle and about the same turnout is expected tonight. Coach Ken Sommerville and Mac Wagner of the two clubs are prepping their boys to go out fighting tonight for a victory. Of course, one team must lose.

Middies Are Favorites

Middletown of course is expected to win. However, the Wagnermen will have to be plenty tough to stop this powerful Monticello club. Coach Wagner expects to start Bill Tierney and Bob Burton at forwards, Tony Capozella at center, Johnny Newman and Frank Bellotto in the backcourt.

Chet Gray, Herb Avery, Barth Mapes, Larry Prince and Manny Gellman are slated to see front line action for Monticello.

Clintons Register 34 to 25 Victory Over All Star Five

Ten Broeck High Scorer of Game With 12 for Losing Aggregation; Stars Lost Lead

At the Y. M. C. A. court Wednesday night during the special Men's Federation program, the Clinton Avenue Men's Club basketball team registered a convincing 34 to 25 victory over the Federation All-Stars.

The losing aggregation was composed of players from the First Baptist Church, Port Ewen and St. James Methodist Churches.

Culver Ten Broeck, elongated center of City League basketball fame, was the individual high scorer of the game with 12 points for the All-Stars. Ten Broeck tossed in six fields.

Nussbaum paced the winners with nine points. Poe gathered in eight. Following Ten Broeck's high 12 for the All-Stars was Bill Ferguson with a half dozen points.

Charlie Gumaer, Art Rice, Doug Harvey and Al Sonnenberg represented the First Baptist Church; "Moe" Osterhoudt and "Cy" Crosswell from St. James and Culver Ten Broeck and Bill Ferguson from Port Ewen.

The All-Stars had a 16 to 12 lead at the end of the first two periods of play.

Bowlers Who Have Taken Spotlight

Here are the members of the Jones bowling team, representatives of the Colonial Women's League which took the spotlight at the Central Recreation alleys Wednesday night. The team rolled a 2479 triple which stands as No. 1 in women's bowling annals. However, the outstanding feat was accomplished by Mrs. Evelyn Provenzano who pounded out a 633 triple, a new record in the history of women's bowling marks in the city. Standing left to right in the above photo are Mrs. Provenzano, Doris Harvey, Rose Schatzel, Kay Robertson and Evelyn Jones.

Leading Pro of Country Tallies 65 in First Round; Conditions Hamper Playing

San Francisco, Calif., Jan. 23 (AP)—Texas born Benny Hogan, setting a pace comparable to a jackrabbit in his native state, was out in front today as the field teed off in the second round of the 72-hole San Francisco Open golf tournament.

The 137-pound dynamite, leading pro golfer of the country the last two years and winner of the recent Los Angeles Open for a flying 1942 start, knocked par dizzy yesterday with a first round 65.

It lopped seven strokes off standard figures for the California club course. Par for the 6,520 yard, heavily-wooded layout is a pair of 36s. Hogan toyed with it to the tune of 32-33.

Exercise for Louis

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—Heavyweight Boxing Champion Joe Louis, now an army private, was asked if he got a chance to exercise at Camp Upton. "No," replied Joe, who has his own ideas about exercise. "I just drill two hours in the morning and two in the afternoon."

Today's Guest Star

Francis E. Stan, Washington Star: "The sport (?) that figures to be aided most by the war is wrestling. The burpers play a poor man's game. The racket was dead until the last depression, when it came to life while the $2.20, $4.40, $6.60, etc., sports collapsed, and now there is sinister talk that it will revive."

game raise. . . Jack Milley, sports columnist who is now doing publicity work, has signed for a daily sports broadcast to begin in February.

He hit such long tee shots that his ball was on the edge of all four of the par 5 holes. Each time he chipped up for putts on more than three feet. Seven birdies were on the card. Low scores were not exactly new to slender Benny. He had 62 in the Oakland Open last year.

As the leader, Hogan enjoyed a three-shot advantage over his closest rival starting today's second round. Veteran Harry Cooper of Minneapolis came home with a 33-35-68. Another old timer, Horton Smith, of Pinehurst, N. C., crowded Cooper with a 35-34-69.

Others among the nine stars breaking par were Harry Bassler, Los Angeles, Calif., 35-35-70; Dick Metz, Oak Park, Ill., 35-35-70 and the following 71 shooters, Lawson Little, San Francisco, 35-36; Denry Shute, Chicago, 35-36; Ralph Hutchinson, Bethlehem, Penn., 35-36; and Lloyd Mangrum, 36-35.

Half a dozen tied par. Among those who fell back to rear guard positions was Byron Nelson of Toledo, Ohio, former U. S. Open and National P. G. A. champion.

Nashville, Tenn.—If there's anything you want recalled about Vanderbilt's famed All-America griddle Carl Hinkle, Jr., just ask his mother.

Mrs. Hinkle has reserved a special den at her Goodlettsville home wherein the ex-footballer's possessions have been preserved.

And if it's Hinkle exploits you want brought to mind, his mother can fix you up on that too. She has a volumed account of his football deeds as far back as high school days.

The volume, made up of newspaper and radio clippings mainly in the year 1937, includes scrapbooks of:

- Hinkle at Cornersville High.
- Hinkle the freshman and sophomore at Vanderbilt.
- Hinkle's exploits as a college junior.
- Hinkle the senior and All-America at Vanderbilt.

There's a new volume in the making now at the Hinkle household. It's all about Cadet Carl Hinkle, Jr., the West Point soldier, and his accomplishments for Uncle Sam. The captain of West Point cadets is adding still more clippings to the latest volume.

Cadet Hinkle's father, a minister, gets a kick out of his son's national recognition.

There's one thing he doesn't relish, however, and that's having his newspaper clipped hither and yon by the missus before he reads it.

Recs Are Set for Invasion Of Upstate Courts; Team Is Tied for Fourth Place

Spaulding's 240 Tops Major Loop At Central Recs

Flemings Posts 237 Single to Follow; Randy Kelder Gets High Triple of 627 Last Night

In the Major League at the Central Recreation alleys last night Hod Spaulding of the Joneses and George Flemings of Hymes, paced the activity with high singles of 240 and 237 respectively.

Spaulding's 240 came in his first game against the Tiano Terriers and he wound up with a 609 triple. He had another 200 game in the final match scoring 212. Randy Kelder, however, emerged as the high triple scorer with 627 with games of 224, 211 and 192.

Flemings' 237 sparked his triple of 556. His other scores were 172 and 147. In this match between Hymes and Steins, the latter club winning two games, Al Goldman of the Steins, posted a 606 triple. Johnny Ferraro's 221, along with scores of 197, and 170, helped him to total a 588 triple for the Adirondacks. They dropped two matches to Miceys. Dwight McEntee had a 207 single for Miceys.

In the Terrier-Joneses game Charlie Tiano posted 206, 199 and 210 to give him a 615 triple. Brizee of the Terriers had 205 and 202. Whitaker posted a 201 game. Johnny Swint rolled one 200 game coming through with a 204. Randy Kiefer of the Joneses had 212.

Other 200 scores or better were posted by Leventhal with 202, Larry Petersen, Jr., with 201, Svirsky 213, and Naigles 211.

Skiers Tour Slated

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—Four skiers from Chile and two from Bolivia are expected here Monday to start an eight-weeks' tour of ski centers in the United States. The tour is being sponsored as a good will measure by the National Ski Association at the request of the coordinator of inter-American affairs in Washington.

'Red' Conaty's Quintet Meets Glens Falls and Saratoga in Games Over Week-End

Manager John Conaty's improved Kingston Recreation basketball club of the New York State Pro League, starts another invasion of the Capital district teams' territory Saturday night and the games will represent Kingston's one big chance of grabbing a play-off berth in the first half standings.

The Recs engage Turk Karam's Glens Falls Lions tomorrow night and their chances of winning have gone sky-high. As a result of the games played Wednesday, the Recs have left the cellar and are now tied for fourth place. Glens Falls is last.

Riding on a two-game winning streak with important triumphs over Albany and Pittsfield in successive weeks, the Colonial City cagers will be a tough crew to stop from now on. The Recs demonstrated their devastating power in those last two contests.

Providing the Conaty-coached outfit takes both of these week-end clashes the Recs have an excellent chance of vaulting into second place. Kingston is now tied with Pittsfield for fourth place with six wins and seven defeats and trails Troy in third by a half game.

This is a do or die invasion trip by the Recs. Both of these games are badly needed and must be taken if the local quintet has any desire at all of getting into second place.

Following the tilt in Glens Falls tomorrow night, Manager Conaty takes his boys over to Saratoga to meet the troublesome Spa aggregation. While Kingston needs this game for a possible second place entry, Saratoga also must get the game to protect its slim lead for the runner-up position in the New York State Pro Basketball League.

By the time the Recreations return to the municipal auditorium for the benefit game with the Troy Pros Wednesday, February 4, the club might be in a play-off berth. Monday morning will tell the story.

After that crushing 57 to 43 victory over the Pittsfield Golden Bears last Wednesday night, Manager Conaty had much in the way

High Falls Meets State Hospital in Cage Tilt Tonight

Tough Contest Scheduled for Hose-Handlers; Juniors to Play St. Peters

The attraction at High Falls tonight will be the Hudson River State Hospital club against the Firemen. The hose-handlers are pointing for this game with the across the river outfit.

No lineup has been announced for the State Hospital club but it can be expected that the visitors will appear with a stellar array of talent to meet the high-flying Firemen.

In the preliminary at 7:30 o'clock the Firemen Juniors will meet St. Peters.

Rotary Boys' Results

In the Y. M. C. A. Rotary Boys' Basketball League last night the Wahos scored a 10 to 7 win over the Aces. H. Wells paced the winners with six points. Berinato had three for the losers. In another game the Arrows downed the Flashes by 18 to 12. J. Schrowang had nine for the winning club. Pete Kearney collected eight for the Flashes. The Wahos and Arrows meet next week for the championship of the first round and the Flashes and Aces vie for third and fourth positions.

of back-slapping for his cagers who continued to prove that Kingston is still in the running. . . It was Jerry Rizzo, the former Fordham Ram ace who was the bulwark of the Kingston attack. However, every Kingston player had his hands in the defeat of Pittsfield. Jim Buckley, Al Benson, Hagen Anderson, Jack McGuirk, Ed Conaty and Cooper all played well.

Week by week the addition of Anderson becomes more satisfactory. This tough cager has been a big factor in the latest successes of the local aggregation.

Ski Meet Will Be Held on Sunday at Bear Mountain Hill

Lack of Snow at Telemark Hill in Rosendale Is Reason for Switch; Next Event Listed

In a telegram from New York headquarters to Walter Williams in Rosendale this morning it was decided to transfer the United States Eastern Amateur Ski Association ski jumping tournament to Bear Mountain.

The meet had previously been scheduled for the Telemark Ski Hill in Rosendale for Sunday afternoon. However, the lack of snow on the hill forced the committee to make other plans.

According to information at Bear Mountain there isn't any snow at that place either. Snow will be manufactured for the ski hill through the operation of the ice grinder.

Walt Williams also announced this morning that the ski dance slated for Saturday night has also been postponed until Saturday, February 14, in conjunction with the Cross Country Ski Race scheduled for the next day. The crowning of the Winter Queen also will take place at that dance.

When it was learned that the meet wouldn't be held in Rosendale due to the lack of snow, Torger Tokle, sensational young Norwegian ski jumper, decided to accept an invitation to appear in a meet at Seattle, Wash., and he will not appear at Bear Mountain Sunday.

Recreations Sign American Pro Star

John Moskowski, Trenton, Added to Roster

In an endeavor to bolster the Recreations for their important games over the week-end and for the final slate of contests in the first half, Manager John Conaty announced last night that John Moskowski has been signed.

Moskowski, according to Conaty is a long range shooter and has been playing with Trenton in the American Professional League.

"This is one addition which won't mean that any present players will be cut loose from the squad," said the Rec pilot.

Conaty realizes his outfit has been playing good ball in the last two games but has been on the lookout for a couple of weeks to find a good and reliable long range shooter.

Moskowski, it is believed, will be with the Recreations Saturday and Sunday night for the upstate games.

To Speak at Dinner

Word received from Charles E. Wilson, chairman of the speakers bureau of the National Association of Manufacturers, Thursday, stated that Earle R. VanVliet was available for an address at the Washington's Birthday dinner of the First Reformed Church Men's Club on February 19. It had been announced that Mr. Wilson himself would be the speaker. Mr. VanVliet is vice-president and treasurer of the Tubize Chatillon Corp., of New York City and also treasurer of the Rayon Producers group of the United States. Mr. Wilson said that he was in a position to speak authoritatively on industry's efforts to meet the challenging demands of wartime production. The other speaker at the dinner will be Attorney Donald V. Hock of Allentown, Pa., an interesting speaker who has been heard in Kingston on a previous occasion.

A clearing house of information has provided an effective means for inter-change of surplus parts among manufacturers, the Department of Commerce says.

Pertinent Facts On Conscription

When men between the ages of 20 and 45 register in New York State on February 14, 15 and 16, the registration card materially will be no different than heretofore used except it will be green in color. Brigadier General Ames T. Brown, New York State Director of Selective Service said today.

The card used for registration between October 16, 1940 and June 30, 1941 was white, and melon was used for the color of the cards used in registration on July 1, 1941 and since then.

Information will be placed on the cards by the registrars as the result of questions asked the registrants and, General Brown

Dr. Hoffman Will Speak At "Y" Dinner

Dr. Milton J. Hoffman, a member of the faculty of New Brunswick Theological Seminary, will be the speaker next Friday evening at the annual Y. W. C. A. membership dinner. Dr. Hoffman spent three years doing graduate work at Oxford as a Rhodes scholar, following which he was prominent in the middle west as a lecturer and educator. The committee of which Mrs. Theron Culver is chairman, feels that they are most fortunate in having secured Dr. Hoffman for their dinner speaker this year.

Also on the program will be two selections by the Oratorio Society under the direction of George Fowler of Poughkeepsie. During the short business session, reports of the general secretary and treasurer will be presented, and eight members will be elected to the board of directors.

The meeting is open to both men and women and all reservations should be made at the "Y" office by next Wednesday morning.

May Day In 1917 Festive Occasion

May Day, 1917, was held on the first Friday in May which was also Arbor Day and a holiday for all the schools in the city. Elaborate plans had been laid for the exercises to take place on the high school lawn but because of the extremely cold weather that week it was necessary to arrange for the program in the auditorium. For this reason many were turned away.

Leading the procession into the auditorium was the prime minister, Eugene Gleason, who was also the senior class president of that year. He was followed by the May Queen's attendants, who were dressed in white gowns with garlands of roses. There were eight, all members of the senior class: The Misses Marion Way, Anna Roach, Josephine Schmidt, Marguerite Quick, Lillian Eckert, Ruth Terwilliger, Ruth Deegan and Esther Rodie.

The queen that year was blond, Miss Faith Safford, who also wore a white gown with long train. The crown bearer was Miss Hope Powell; sceptre bearer, Miss Mildred Healey; pages, the Misses Doris Bartlett and Grace Berryann, and Frank and John Thompson. The senior banner was carried by Edward Boyle and John Palsi.

Following the crowning of the queen, she and her court were entertained with a group of dances the solo parts being taken by the Misses Helen Dwyer, Katherine Kearney, Marjorie Richards and Charlotte Kennedy. The dancers were gaily costumed in brilliant colors with eight of the performers presenting butterflies and another with a gown made of material with lilacs of the valley splashed over green leaves. Much applause was given a schottische by the Misses Helen McNeil and Helen Dwyer, respectively dressed in a purple gown trimmed with gold and orange gown trimmed with black, the colors of the old Kingston Academy and Ulster Academy. As the dance progressed these gowns were discarded revealing costumes in maroon and white, the high school colors.

The dancers were followed by two patriotic pantomimes directed by Miss Noone. One depicted the relief the American troops were giving to the war torn world and the other showed Britannia, Liberty and La Belle France united for the cause of democracy.

As usual one of the most thrilling moments for the athlete is when he is awarded with a rose from the queen's hand on May Day. Miss Safford graciously bestowed this honor on the members of three of the school's basketball teams that year. On the varsity team were: Edward Boyle, John Joyce, Edward Relyea, Harold Johnson, William Wilson, Chester Dolson, Joseph Hallinan, James Kiernan; the midget basketball team: John Schoonmaker, Edward Kirchner, William Quick, William Smith, Roger Martin, John Nickerson and John McAndrew; the girls' varsity team: The Misses Anna Cassler, Josephine Schmidt, Anna Hurley, Irene Josephovitz, Helen Wood, Marion Bell, Mary Bruyn and Pauline Van Wagenen.

Since the auditorium was not large enough for the May Pole dance this feature of the program was held on the school lawn and witnessed by some 2,000 people. This traditional winding of the May Pole was done by members of the freshman class that year.

It was the custom on May Day to have some sort of athletic competition but that year there were no boys' literary clubs to compete as in the Ulster and Kingston Academies and the track team had not yet organized. However, the undefeated baseball team offered their skill and met the Eastman's Business School team of Poughkeepsie at the Athletic Field in the afternoon.

The climax of the day was the concert by the Glee Club in the high school auditorium under the direction of Miss Marguerite E. Paulding, supervisor of music in the schools. The chorus totaled 70 voices and the accompanist was Miss Alberta Silkworth. The program included a varied selection of 12 songs and three orchestral numbers. The proceeds were used to purchase needed instruments for the orchestra and the surplus was to be donated to the Red Cross fund. Members of the orchestra that year were: Lawrence Cavanagh, Hyman Weisberg, Treadwell Wilson, Joseph Jacobson, Jane Hogeboom, Catherine Pehleman, Pearl Stoddard, Henry Terpening, James Keefe, Arthur Schon, Louis Schon, Felix Katz, Clarence Reynolds and Miriam Pitts.

During the day the Prisma Literary Club held a food sale for the benefit of the Red Cross. The entire May Day arrangements were made by a committee headed by Joseph Jacobson, who was assisted by Harold Garrison, Hyman Weisberg, Ella Lapine, Anna Roach and Esther Rodie.

Officers Re-Elected For Comforter Sunday School
At the recent annual meeting and supper of the Sunday School teachers and officers of the Reformed Church of the Comforter officers for the coming year were all re-elected. They are Frank M. Elmendorf, superintendent; Douglas Kennedy, assistant superintendent; Miss Dorothy Kennedy, secretary; Charles Kelse, treasurer; Mrs. Carl Yerry, superintendent of beginners department; Mrs. Russell Damstra, superintendent of primary; Mrs. Rufus Kelder, superintendent of Cradle Roll; and Mrs. Wilbur Elmendorf, superintendent of home department.

It was voted to contribute $50 to the roofing fund for the church hall as the donation from the Sunday School.

Presbyterian Service Club
Mrs. Clarence Dumm will give an interesting book review Monday evening at the monthly meeting of the Service Club of the Roundout Presbyterian Church. The club will meet that evening with Mrs. Frank McCausland at her home on Crane street. Following the meeting refreshments will be served and a social hour enjoyed.

REPLIES TO WEDDING INVITATIONS ARE NOT ALWAYS FOUND RELIABLE

A return card enclosed with an invitation usually indicates a public function—certainly not a wedding. And yet, this morning a much upset mother of the bride asks:

"May we enclose cards all addressed and stamped and ready to have the yes or no checked and the card returned to us? The needless expense we ran into when our older daughter was married, it because we prepared for twice too many people, has made me chary of putting any reliance upon the accuracy of R.s.v.p. Not even all of those who accepted came. On the other hand, many who never answered turned up. But this time we would like to be as sure as possible."

Unfortunately, the only answer you can be sure of are the ones who send regrets. People who would like to come, but are not sure that they can, are inclined to send acceptances. At a guess for about half of those from whom you don't hear and for about three-quarters of those who do accept, this will be reasonably accurate. In any case, provision for 70 per cent of those invited would be ample—counting invitations sent to a general list. If invitations are sent only to relatives and most intimate friends, you would prepare for all.

Candles On a Mid-Day Table

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it in bad taste to burn candles on a lunch table? My dining-room is dreary and never gets the mid-day sun. However, it is not really dark enough to need artificial light to see by. That's the situation and you've no doubt gathered that I would like to use the candles.

Answer: The best excuse for candles at mid-day is that the room is dark. In other words, while they do not belong on a mid-day table, if they are needed it is only sensible to put them on and light them. If your room is neither dark nor yet light enough to be cheerful, I think you might use candles.

It All Depends

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it ever improper for a girl who is marrying for the first time to have a big wedding and bridesmaids and wedding finery when it is the bridegroom's second venture?

Answer: Ordinarily it is quite proper that the bride have as big a wedding as she pleases. However, if he is marrying only a short time after the death of his first wife, a conspicuously large and elaborate wedding might be criticized. But even so, not seriously. On the other hand, if he is a divorcee and there was a scandal in connection with the divorce, it would be wiser to attract as little attention as possible to this marriage.

The three types of table service are helpfully explained in Emily Post's booklet, "The Etiquette of Service," which you may have by sending ten cents in coin and a three-cent stamp to cover postage and handling. Sofa Revived by A New Slip Cover

Made By Quick Pin-On Method

A glossily dark, brightly printed new slip cover does wonders for your old sofa's morale! It picks up the spirits of beholders and sitters, too!

You can make it easily the pin-on way. You just pin pieces of fabric directly to the sofa, snip off the excess material and sew piece to piece.

To start, remove cushions and pin fabric to top back with big pins. Pin it down over the inside-back and seat of one section, allowing 4 inches for tuck-in between. Then trim around all the pins, leaving 1½ inches for seams.

Now, working in the very same way, pin and trim other pieces of fabric. No fit other back-and-seat sections — and do likewise for front, arms, sides, back and cushions. Pin piece to piece, remove to waste, then try on.

Finish with a deep, gathered flounce — or, what all the smart stores are showing, a stiff one with corner kick-pleats.

Our 32-page booklet diagrams each step in making and in trimming slip covers for chairs, sofas, auto seats. Has directions for barrel and channel-back chairs; includes frilly and tailored cover styles. Suggests colors, fabrics.

Send ten cents (plus one cent to cover cost of mailing) for your copy of "How to Make Slip Covers" to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Asks $150,000 Damages

Freehold, N. J., Jan. 23 (AP)—Suing for $150,000 damages, Jacob (Buddy) Baer has charged in Monmouth county common pleas court that he was crippled as a boxer, perhaps permanently, in an automobile accident which preceded his disastrous bout with Joe Louis January 9. Howard A. Lavin of Red Bank, counsel for Baer, said today that the suit had been delayed until after the fight rather than jeopardize attendance. Baer was knocked out in the first round of the navy relief fund benefit show at Madison Square Garden.

Criticizes Selfishness

Washington, Jan. 23 (AP)—Mrs. John L. Whitehurst of Baltimore, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, told 1,200 clubwomen from all parts of the nation today that she had "never known the women to quarrel so bitterly" for places of leadership as they are doing in the war program. "Selfishness is dominating our people today," Mrs. Whitehurst asserted, and warned that hickering over places of preferment could cause the downfall of democracy.

Halloran Is Named To Presidency of Real Estate Board

F. S. Hyatt Vice President, W. H. Caunitz Is Chosen Secretary and Burns Is Treasurer

PETER J. HALLORAN

Peter J. Halloran, a director in the Homeseekers' Co-operative Savings and Loan Association of this city, was elected president of the Ulster County Real Estate Board at a meeting held on Thursday evening in Foye's Restaurant on Wall street. Frank S. Hyatt was elected vice president; Walter H. Caunitz, secretary; and Arthur J. Burns, treasurer.

George W. Moore was named as director of the Real Estate Association of the state of New York.

Among the matters discussed at the meeting was the question of having enacted into law a provision that will enable the small property owners to have their assessment reviewed at a cost within his ability to pay.

The resolution adopted set forth that it was the request that the legislature shall provide for the supervision, review and equalization of assessments for the purpose of taxation and that assessments shall in no case exceed full value; that the state legislature has created a joint legislative committee on assessing and reviewing of assessments which committee is headed by Senator Bewley as chairman; that relief from excessive and burdensome taxes cannot be delayed without injury to real estate; that sufficient evidence exists showing the existence of widespread over-assessment; that local authorities are influenced by their budgetary requirements in fixing assessment; that the small property owner cannot afford the expense involved in a court review of an excessive assessment and an impartial and independent board free from local influences and to which the small property owner can appeal is the only possible remedy.

The resolution closed with the request that the Bewley committee make a report early in the next session of the legislature recommending the creation of an independent board of review, the members of which shall be qualified persons such as real estate brokers, property owners and lawyers, to which the small property owner can appeal for relief from excessive assessments.

MEMORIAL

In loving memory of my son, Virdenell Churchwell, who died 11 years ago today, January 23, 1931. A daily thought, a nightly prayer, Some day I'll meet them "Over There."

MOTHER.

Christian Schwenk Dies; Founded and Operated Bakery

Christian Schwenk died late last night at his home, 50 Ten Broeck avenue. He was 83 years of age. He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Elizabeth K. Schwenk; three sons, Herman C., Frederick W. and John J.; also six grandchildren.

He was a member of the Trinity Lutheran Church and Aretas Lodge I. O. O. F. Until his death Mr. Schwenk was very much interested in the fire companies. He was one of the first organizers of Excelsior Hose and was the oldest living member until he died. He was a trustee for several years of the company besides holding other offices. He also was an exempt fireman. The deceased was founder and was connected with the bakery business for more than 40 years. About 20 years ago his two oldest sons took charge of that business.

Mr. Schwenk was born in Germany and had lived in the United States for 70 years. Funeral will be held Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from his late home. Burial will be in Montrose cemetery.

Local Death Record

Highland, Jan. 23—The Rev. D. S. Haynes, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, conducted private funeral services Wednesday for Mrs. Katherine Traver, 54, of Haynes Corners, who died in the Kingston Hospital where she was taken on Sunday, after being ill at her home for the past two weeks. Burial was in the Fairview Cemetery at Stone Ridge. Mrs. Traver was born in Kingston, the daughter of the late William and Elizabeth Rickett Gardner. She is survived by a son, Elting S. Auchmuddy, Maude and Hazel at home, and Mrs. George Lee of Sloatsburg.

Governor Might Recommend Low Budget for State

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 23 (AP)—Hope of double relief for personal income tax payers mounted today on belief Governor Lehman will recommend a state budget below the present $385,000,000 and substantial reduction of the income levy.

Newspaper editors and legislative reporters get a preview of the Democratic executive's 1942-43 financial program today, but its contents will not be known generally until submitted to the legislature Monday night.

Uncertainty of future tax receipts as a result of the war was expected to hold the governor to recommendation of an "emergency" one-year cut of the income tax, which automatically would be restored unless revenue warranted its annual reenactment.

Observers believe he will propose taxpayers be permitted to withhold 10 or possibly 20 percent of their tax obligation, after figuring it on present rates. Speculation centered on whether such a "discount," if it develops, would be made applicable to 1942 payments on 1941 income or be delayed a year.

Taxpayers already save an estimated $21,000,000 in aggregate of taxation on 1941 income by elimination last year of the one percent emergency levy.

Meantime another form of income tax relief—if Governor Lehman approves—was assured yesterday by the Republican-controlled legislature, when it scheduled passage of bills to make quarterly installment payments of the impost effective this year.

Proposal of a curtailed budget, with some forecasts running as low as $380,000,000, was anticipated despite an assured heavy increase of institutional expense due to mounting living costs.

Reduction of the present $47,000,000 relief appropriation, possibly as much as $6,000,000, and trimming of departmental appropriations were expected to offset the higher institutional outlay.

Dress Model Tells How She Came From Tunnel

Washington, Jan. 23 (AP)—Union Station officials and police continued their investigation today into the story of a pretty young woman who stumbled out of a train tunnel last night and told a sentry she had fallen from a southbound passenger train.

She identified herself as Frieda Lund, 23, a clothing model in New York. Reporters were not allowed to question her at Casualty Hospital, where numerous cinders were removed from her face and body by physicians.

Police found one of the girl's shoes about 1,500 feet from the mouth of the tunnel and blood spots on stones and cinders. They expressed the opinion that perhaps seven trains passed through the tunnel between the time she fell and got outside. She said she could not remember what happened, but recalled walking into clouds of smoke as she attempted to go from the dining car to a coach.

Observes Anniversary

Thursday the Mohican Market on John street was observing the 15th anniversary of the opening of the market which is located opposite the parking grounds. The store which is now occupied by the Mohican Market was erected 15 years ago specially for the Mohican which moved to the new location from Wall street where McCabe's restaurant is now located. Manager Emzie Trowbridge in commenting upon the market's history said that the Mohican 20 years ago adopted the present "super-market policy" and has successfully carried on its business since then under that policy. Volume buying and economical distribution has always been the policy of the company.

More Furs Sold

An additional $7,500 worth of furs was sold in New York by the Empire State Trappers Co-operative Association, it was announced today. The organization at its auction in Phoenix earlier in the week disposed of $2,500 worth of furs. An official of the organization reported today that the New York sale brought the following average prices: Gray fox, $2.52 1/2; skunk, $1.50; muskrat, $1.85; mink, $7.50; red fox, $6. Raccoon pelts were sold by individual classification and no average price was given.

Board of Education Studies Post-War School Changes

Laidlaw Proposes Plan Which Would Replace Several Over-Age School Buildings

Dr. James A. Mathers was appointed temporary assistant medical examiner of the city schools last evening by the Board of Education to succeed Dr. Herbert B. Johnson who resigned recently. Dr. Mathers was appointed to the position on a month to month basis from January 13 at a salary of $125 a month.

When Dr. Johnson, who had served as assistant under Dr. Keator, tendered his resignation the Teachers Committee was authorized to seek an assistant to fill the vacancy. Trustee Remmert Thursday evening reported the engagement of Dr. Mathers.

A proposed outline for improvements to the Kingston school system in post-war days was reported to the Board by Superintendent Laidlaw who has been asked by D. L. Essex, director of Buildings and Grounds of the New York State Education Department to outline to the department any plan which might be placed in effect after the war by the city with Federal aid to relieve the expected unemployment situation which must follow the war.

Mr. Laidlaw stated that he has been requested to give an idea of what Kingston might be interested in doing in the way of a long range improvement program should funds be made available. In a general way a plan of improvement was directed to the State Department.

Would Replace Schools

This plan which could be carried out under the Public Work Reserve and with Federal funds to aid local money he said included a plan to replace several of the present over-age grammar school buildings with modern structures and to possibly convert the present high school building to junior high school purposes and erect a larger modern high school building. In his letter Mr. Laidlaw stated that several of the present grade schools were old and out of date. That through the erection of five new grade schools of larger capacity than the present schools there could be a marked saving in overhead operation.

Erection of new grade school buildings would provide better facilities and additional courses could be installed such as vocational training, physical education and gymnasiums and assembly rooms could be provided.

In his letter to the State Education Department he called attention to the fact that in any such program the city of Kingston could be expected to provide but little in the way of financing any such program as outlined and indicated that a substantial Federal grant would be required.

Mr. Laidlaw pointed out that the program outlined as to post-war construction was purely a program submitted in a general way as an answer to the State's inquiry and that it was designed to indicate to the State what the city might be able to do should the Federal government provide public funds in sufficient quantities to carry out the work in a plan to relieve unemployment after the war.

A communication from the New York State Department of Audit and Control was received stating that the Board's payment to the New York State Retirement System for civil service employees would be $431,341 for the current year. This covers employees of the Board who are not in the teachers' pension system. The money must be paid within 30 days and provision has already been made in the budget for the payment within that time.

The advancing cost of paper articles was brought to the attention of the Board by Trustee Katz of the Supplies committee who suggested the Board advertise for bids for paper towels and other paper necessities now. The committee was authorized to see such bids and also to place a contract with the lowest responsible bidder.

Trustee Remmert moved that the finance committee be authorized to audit the payroll for January and pay bills since the meeting Thursday evening was held a week in advance of the usual meeting date.

Trustee Feeney reported that plans and specifications for remodeling the cafeteria in the high school had been received and the committee was authorized to advertise for bids.

The board also unanimously voted to have a letter of appreciation drawn up and sent to the family of the late John F. McLean, school watchman.

Washout Is Reported

Attention of the board was called to the lower level of the M. J. Michael School grounds, where recent rains had caused a washout. This will be repaired by the city engineer. Trustee Feeney also suggested that a survey be made of the present high school grounds and the M.J.M. grounds with a view of ascertaining just how much expansion could be carried out on the present grounds efficiently. He said that in view of a future building program it would be well to look over the grounds and have a survey made so that there could be an orderly and planned development of the grounds. Work done now should not be carried out so as to be lost in future developments of the plant.

The sum of $11,297.50 has been received as federal grant for carrying out the present defense program at the Vocational School for the period ending July 1. Receipt of this grant assures the continuation of the defense project to July.

A report was made on the air raid drills which have been conducted in the high school. The orderliness and general manner in which such drills have been carried out were reported as impressive.

Superintendent Laidlaw reported a balance of $107,924 in the school savings bank system.

Inquiry has been made by several of the school teachers who are eligible for the draft as to whether the board would make up the difference between army pay and their usual salaries when they are drafted. This matter had been discussed at previous meetings and an inquiry was then made to determine what other towns were doing. At that time it was generally reported that there would be no attempts made to make up the difference in money by the school systems unless some legislation was passed. However, nothing has since been heard on the proposition, and Mr. Laidlaw was instructed to make a further investigation. It was pointed out that in the event a substitute was hired it might be necessary to go out of town to get some teachers in lines where no qualified instructor was available here and in this event it might be that because of the temporary nature of the employment such teachers would demand even more than the regular teacher was paid before going into the service.

All male teachers who enter the service will have their positions open to them when they return. This makes any employment of a teacher to fill the vacancy a temporary teacher and in many cases a salary much more than the usual substitute salary for local teachers probably will have to be paid.

Mr. Laidlaw reported the attendance at night school to be the best in years. There are 249 registered and the average attendance for the month is 187.5/6.

Non-resident tuition bills rendered districts for the term from September 1941 to January 1942 amounted to $15,017.00 and of that sum on January 21, 1942, the total of $14,676.00 had been collected leaving a balance of but $341. There are refunds due districts amounting to $265 which will be credited on bills for tuition in February.

A communication from the State Education Department states that the state money appropriated for the common schools support for the school year ending June 30, 1942, in the city is $302,069.18 from which $37,031.05 is deducted for teachers' retirement fund, leaving a balance to be received of $265,038.13. A check for one half of this sum has been forwarded.

Superintendent Laidlaw made his monthly report on attendance in the public and parochial schools. The average attendance for the public and parochial schools for the month ending in December was 93 per cent.
